Some protesters carried signs Thursday opposing a proposed special zoning exception for a strip club in Hancock County.

Strip club zoning decision imminent

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER
Staff Writer

Florida attorney Luke Lirot took a new approach Thursday in trying to convince Hancock Planning and Zoning commissioners to allow a special exception for a proposed gentlemen's club in the county. He told commissioners that the club was a right guaranteed by the First Amendment of the U.S.

Constitution.

He also assured those in attendance that the club was not a strip club, but a bar, a restaurant and a place where exotic dancers will "expose certain anatomical areas in conjunction with an expressive performance."

Annexation costing Bay, Waveland big bucks

Mayors hoping to reach acceptable compromise

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Staff Writer

With huge legal and consulting fees already piled up, Waveland and Bay St. Louis consultants, lawyers and officials take their major annexation battle to trial next month.

Mayors of both municipalities say they're hoping for a last minute compromise that would keep the case from going into the costly courtroom battle. A whole week of trial has been scheduled to begin Nov. 29, when a battery of specialized and consultants will square off.

As it stands, Waveland reports having spent more than triple what Bay St. Louis has for consultant and legal fees: $323,754. Waveland attorney Zack Butterworth said that total includes $10,039 to his law firm, $195,193 to the city's annexation consultants, and $118,522 to the city's special annexation attorneys.

Butterworth said some of the

Shipwrecks in the Gulf of Mexico is topic at Bay library

October is Mississippi Archaeology Month

Dave Ball, MA, RPA, Senior Marine Archaeologist and Regional Dive Master with the Minerals Management Service in New Orleans, is the featured speaker at a program on Shipwrecks in the Gulf of Mexico Monday, October 18, at 7 p.m. in the Seal Room of the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library on Highway 90 in Bay St. Louis.

The Josephine, a 19th century steamship found off Horn and Ship Islands, and several other 19th century vessels and six World War II shipwrecks, including the German U-boat U-166, are highlights of the program.

The program is part of the observance of Mississippi Archaeology Month, a statewide effort to inform the public about the role archaeology plays in understanding the history of many groups of people who have lived in the state. Mississippi has a diverse history and a prehistory stretching back hundreds of years. Mississippi Archaeology Month brings together people of all ages and backgrounds to learn more about the archaeology of our state.

Ball, with the Minerals Management Service for five years, currently holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in anthropology from Sonoma State University and a Master of Arts degree in anthropology from Florida State University. He has 15 years experience in archaeology and has directed field research on both land and underwater archaeological sites across the country.

The Mississippi Archaeological Association is an organization of professional archaeologists and lay people actively involved with archaeology and archaeological preservation, uniting in a common effort to understand the prehistory and history of Mississippi and the surrounding region.

More information on these programs is available by calling Jamie Elston, Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library, 228-467-5282.

Locals shed their clothes for calendar to help animals

BY GEOFF BELCHER
News Editor

Some local ladies are grinning and baring it for a new pin-up calendar to raise both funds and awareness for the Friends of the Animal Shelter in Hancock County.

The group will debut the calendar, which will be called "Coastal Treasures," at a kick-off party at the Bay City Grill from 4-7 p.m. on Nov. 14. The calendar models, ranging in age from early 20s to late 60s, will be on hand to autograph their pictorials.

The calendar is the brain child of Friends President Carol Strohmets.

"I was inspired to undertake this project by a group of women who did it in England," Strohmets said. "They wanted to raise money to buy a couch for the visitors waiting room in a hospital. One of their husbands was getting treatment for cancer in that hospital. He died and they produced the calendar in his memory."

To date, over the last four years they have raised over $1,000,000 for leukemia research. They also had their story made into the movie Calendar Girls.

Strohmets said similar projects have also raised thousands of dollars for worthwhile causes right here in the United States.

"Ladies in Aiken, S.C. did a calendar entitled 'Steel Magnolias,'" Strohmets said. "It raised $175,000 for meals on wheels for the elderly. Men in Virginia raised funds for a school athletic track, women in Texas and Calif. also produced similar projects for their favorite charities, firemen in Alabama did it. ... We think our project is also worthy to help the animals and residents in Hancock County. We feel the calendar has been produced with style and taste."

"This isn't your typical cheesecake-type calendar," Friends' former president and Miss September Micky Evans said, noting that while the models are nude in the pictorials, nothing is actually shown in any of the photos that you wouldn't be able to see at the beach.

As in the inspirational "Calendar Girls" calendar, all the important parts are covered, thanks to the skill and care of local photographers who donated their time, resources and talents to the project, including Billy Dugger, Ken Murphy, Sandra Russell Clark, Alexander Brown, Mark Buszkiewicz, James deBuys, and Matt Molinary.

Although Strohmets felt strongly about the calendar from the beginning, getting it put together wasn't exactly easy. First, she had to convince the rest of the Friends of the Animal Shelter.

Still, she said, "We felt we needed a gimmick to get peoples attention. When 80 percent of the animals being brought to the (Waveland Animal Shelter) are being killed, we felt it was necessary to do something to get people's attention to this horrendous problem. You just can't throw animals away like they're a piece of trash. Out-of-sight out-of-mind is not good enough. ... Besides the numbers being out of control, pets live longer when they are spayed and neutered."

In addition to the spay and neuter programs, the Friends of the Animal Shelter are working toward the day when there is a no-kill shelter for animals in Hancock County.

"Our shelter is antiquated, dismal, and out of date," Strohmets said. "Friends would like to see a future with a new adoption facility, with outside runs for the dogs and a pleasant environment where people would enjoy coming to find a companion animal, learn about pet care and training, maybe a boarding kennel, a bakery with natural treats for pets, and dog grooming all in one place."

"This all takes money, so we are working hard to make a better future for the animals and the residents of Hancock County."

The Nov. 14 calendar kick-off party is open to the public.

"I also salute the women who volunteered to model for the project," Strohmets said. "They showed great generosity and courage in their willingness to participate in this worthy cause and in doing so embarked on a journey of self discovery."

Strip club -- zoning

"What I want to ask you sir," said commission President Lynn Bell, "is will there be naked ladies?"

Commissioners will make a decision on the matter after taking time to review comments and evidence submitted by both sides, likely at a special meeting that is scheduled for Tuesday, October 26 at 4:15 p.m. Except for Lirot, no one stood up in favor of the proposal.

In a two-hour hearing Thursday, Lirot told the audience that local zoning laws contained language which gave commissioners what he termed "unbridled administrative discretion," or language, Lirot said, that gives commissioners a wide berth to reject proposals of which they do not approve. Such language, he said, is under review in several court cases.

If the county had an ordinance on the books regulating such businesses, it would protect both residents and adult entertainment businesses by setting definite boundaries, Lirot said. The county has no such ordinance.

"Unfortunately," said First Baptist church pastor Al Green addressing the board, "I found myself agreeing with what the lawyer said. Unfortunately, our Board of Supervisors has not provided us with an ordinance that would give you more teeth... but for now the zoning law we have is on our books and I ask you to enforce it... we have heard a lot about rights but nothing about what it will do for our community."

On Friday, District 2 Supervisor Rocky Pullman said that that board attorney Ronnie Antiques is actively working on drafting an ordinance for the county to regulate sexually-oriented businesses.

"We are working on it, I can guarantee that," said Pullman.

Antiques said he hopes to present a possible version of an ordinance to the board this month and hopes that the board will make a decision on the matter before the end of the year, maybe even as early as next month.

"I was also impressed with the lawyer," said First Assembly of God Rev. Jeff Banashak. "But I was under the impression that the law is still of the people, for the people, and by the people and it is clear that the community is soundly against this proposal."

Several others stood up to represent various churches and organizations such as the Beach Front Properties Association and the Clermont Harbor Civic Association. Several business owners also spoke in opposition of the proposal, as well as many private citizens. Many urged the board to allow the final decision to go to the courts.

David Clifford, who said he represented the Beach

Front Assoc., admonished Weldon Frommeyer, who is proposing the project, for not standing up to speak for himself and scoffed at the lawyer's description of the club as a gentlemen's club.

"A strip club is a strip club is a strip club," Clifford said.

Theresa Bogel appealed to the board to listen to their intuition and use their minds when making a decision.

"Just because you can, doesn't mean you should," said Bogel.

An appeal to the Board of Supervisors concerning another proposal for a strip club on Hwy. 90, Magnolia 1, will be presented at the Nov. 1 meeting at 11 a.m. at the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis. The appeal was originally scheduled for Oct. 21.

Judge denies new trial for Magee

BY JOHN WATERMAN
Staff Writer

A man convicted on two counts of sale of a controlled substance will not receive a new trial.

Judge Steven Simpson, circuit court judge, ruled that Jameison Magee, 28, was ineligible for a retrial, as well as a reduced sentence.

Magee's attorney, Brian Alexander, argued that several elements in Magee's first trial had been unfair.

The first, he said, was that there had been no African-Americans on the jury, and that Magee had been denied his right to a jury of his peers.

Chris Schmidt, prosecuting attorney, said that the jurors were randomly selected from Hancock County residents who were registered to vote.

Alexander also argued that much of the evidence in the trial came from questionable sources.

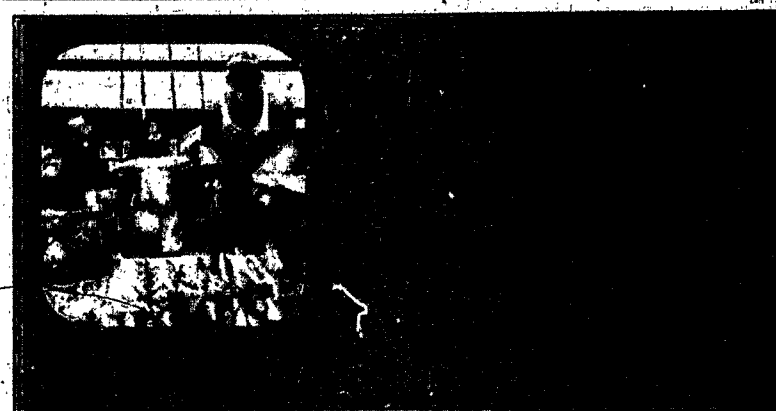

A security camera which recorded the drug transaction, he said, had a very blurry picture.

Alexander added that the confidential informant who testified against Magee had admitted that she was a lifetime drug addict who used the money she received from the police department to buy more drugs.

Simpson ruled that the evidence in question had already been examined by the jury, and said that he would not attempt to overturn what 12 jurors had already deliberated on.

Magee's original sentence of 15 years for each count of transfer of a controlled substance was upheld.

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas
Publisher Emeritus

It seems the year of 2004 just started a couple months ago, yet, we are nearing the end of the tenth month.

Everyone seems to be so busy, as there have been so many happenings this year, this could give one the impression that time is really passing by.

I know our past weather sure had caused a lot of attention, especially the threats of storms.

Many of our residents in the low lying areas have really been busy in the past couple months with high tides.

It has been several years since so many of our roads have been covered by water within such a short period of time.

Then we had four straight days of moisture for the Cruisin' the Coast. I was beginning to think everything was turning to mildew.

So many folks had great plans for the big celebration and many just ended up staying home.

I am sure many of the merchants had to be disappointed because of the weather.

Yet, there were folks who did their thing even when it was raining.

Hopefully next year will have better weather to offer for Cruisin' the Coast.

This is the time to get started, if you have not already on your winter gardening. This goes for vegetables and flowers too.

Among the popular vegetables are turnips, collards, cabbage and mustard greens.

Flower gardens include pansies and several other blooming flowers when its not too cold in winter.

Many bulbs are planted in the winter for spring flowers too.

One of the things I have noticed in recent years is a decline in vegetable gardens in the area.

I can remember a time when almost everyone had a vegetable garden of some sort.

Gardening is a very rewarding experience and gives one an opportunity to get some extra exercise.

In Thursday and today's Echo is an advertisement for GE Plastics, which will be accepting applications for Chemical Operations Technicians through the Mississippi State Employment Service on Thursday, 1 p.m. to 7 p.m.; Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Saturday, 8 a.m. to noon.

As many of you know, GE Plastics has been one of our leading industries in the county and are located at Port Bienville Industrial Park. GE was originally Borg-Warner when the plastic's industry came here.

It is my understanding the reason for the new hiring at GE is for employee attrition.

I am sure there will be a large number of applicants for the positions and this is good.

The employees at GE are very much involved in our community and is one of our leading industries.

Improving tax law is vital to Mississippi

The Senate has passed a business tax restructuring bill that will have a direct impact on major Mississippi industries, including shipbuilding, auto manufacturing, timber, railroads, energy production and small businesses.

Business tax restructuring is the best way to secure and create new jobs. That's why I'm proud to have helped lead passage of this bill which will not cost taxpayers a dime, nor increase the deficit, because the bill's expenses are offset by eliminating several tax loopholes.

Let's look first at what it does for railroads. Railroads are a critical component of economic development efforts. Often entire projects - like the auto manufacturing plants that have sprung up across the South - depend on good, reliable rail service. Rail access can either make or break a community's chances of luring new jobs.

This bill repeals the 4.3 cent-per-gallon diesel fuel tax that railroads and barge operators have had to pay. Other industries like trucking were either released from this tax or had it invested in infrastructure trust funds years ago.

The repeal for the rail and barge industries was a fairness issue. When this tax is phased out, rail and barge service costs can be reduced, which will help stimulate new jobs for rail and barge-served communities. In addition, the bill will provide Mississippi's smaller, short-line railroads with tax incentives to improve or repair their tracks, which will help those industries in small communities served by feeder railroads.

With regard to shipbuilding, this bill allows shipbuilders - such as Mississippi's largest private employer, Northrop Grumman Ship Systems Ingalls Operations of Pascagoula - to pay incremental taxes on the Navy ships they build. To date, shipbuilding companies have been required to pay tax on the entire amount of a ship; even though they don't collect all their contract dollars until years down the road. This new incremental shipbuilding tax structure will go a long way toward preserving good manufacturing jobs at our nation's shipyards. We only have a handful of shipyards left in this country, and we need to make sure those jobs remain here.

Mississippi's many timber jobs will be directly impacted by this bill's tax incentives to encourage tree planting and responsible harvesting. As far as individuals are concerned, the bill clears the way for timber growth to be treated just like any other investment in terms of capital gains taxes.

That's good news for thousands of Mississippians whose retirements, educations and other major expenses are dependent on a stand of timber, or whose jobs depend on our timber industry as a whole.

Help others, and get out and vote

To all our registered voters we should now start thinking of positive ways that we can continue to be our brother's keeper. We need to watch out for those less fortunate. So come election day, November 2, we need to unite and come together and think positive and put our shoulders and our arms, and our minds, and our hearts, everything together, to change the way things are going for those in our community who are less fortunate. Please remember to exercise your right to vote.

Canton's Nissan Motor Company will have more reason to create jobs, thanks to this bill. The legislation corrects an earlier provision by which foreign-owned companies with American operations were taxed at a higher rate than domestic companies. Companies like Nissan may be based overseas, but they employ thousands of Americans nationwide, and not just in assembly jobs, either. We must remember, Nissan's new trucks and SUVs produced at Canton are designed, sourced and built by Americans in America. From the engineer's computer monitor to the end of an assembly line, Americans create these products. Our tax system should treat these companies and their American staff with the same regard as our domestically-headquartered firms.

There are other tax provisions in this bill impacting farmers, fishermen, small business owners, and more incentives, too. In fact, the bill's provisions on energy production are estimated to bring an additional $70 million to Mississippi for road construction and improvement during the next six years. And, the bill's tax credits for small refineries trying to meet new EPA fuel standards will save dozens of Mississippi jobs. You get the idea.

The tax savings included in this bill were paid for by closing corporate tax loopholes and eliminating obsolete corporate tax breaks. The business tax restructuring bill is probably the Senate's most substantial legislative achievement this year, and I'm glad to report that the President has pledged to sign it into law. A lot of liberal thinkers bash and block tax breaks, even when they don't cost a dime, especially any dealing with businesses or corporations. But I can't think of a better way to create jobs than by encouraging those who can.

ondhand information, though."

Liberante said that if anyone should encounter the panther, they should treat the animal with the utmost caution.

"Basically, as long as you don't antagonize it, it shouldn't bother you," she said. "I haven't heard of them attacking people or pets in the area. Use common sense. Don't try and pet it. If it's an adult, it's been in this area for at least two years. They adapt pretty well to living in urban environments."

Dispatchers at the Pass

Christian Police Department said they had not heard any reports concerning the panther.

According to the website www.eparks.org, an adult male panther can weigh up to 130 pounds, while females typically weigh about 70 pounds. They may eat as little as once a week. The panther is a solitary animal, and very territorial. Males establish a home range of up to 400 square miles and females about 50 to 100 square miles.

Chamber members to elect new board members

The Hancock Chamber membership will be casting their vote(s) to elect five directors to serve on the Chamber Board for the next three years. Ballots will be mailed to members before October 15th. This is a historical move in response to a change in the organization's by-laws amended last December.

"I hope all Hancock Chamber members will take the time to consider the candidates and send in their ballot(s) before the November 1st deadline," said Jody Compretta, Hancock Chamber President and Owner of Patients Choice.

In September the Hancock Chamber Nominating Committee introduced the slate of candidates to be considered to serve on the elected Board of Directors for the three year term beginning January 2005 and ending December 31, 2007. No other nominations were received by the membership by the September 30th deadline. The slate of nominees is as follows:

Ray Cox is Store Manager, Wal-Mart SuperCenter, Waveland. Ray has lived and worked in Waveland for close to nine years, managing the opening of one of the world's largest SuperCenters in 2003. He has worked for the Wal-Mart Corporation for 17 years, half his life. Married to Amy with two children, he completed one three-year term on the Chamber Board in 2003.

Marilyn Finch is Assistant Vice President Branch Manager, Whitney National Bank in Waveland, a Chamber Sponsor. Raised in Hancock County, she has worked with Whitney for 10 years. With 22 years banking experience, she has worked in Waveland for the past five years. 2004 President of the Hancock County Exchange Club, she served on the Hancock Chamber Board during 2004 as a Presidential Appointment. Marilyn is married to Jay Finch with three daughters.

Linda Graffeo is a Staff Appraiser with Hancock Bank. She has lived in Hancock County for over 10 years. She resides in Bay St. Louis with her husband Pete. Chairman of the Member Services Committee of the Hancock Chamber, she served one three year term on the Chamber Board from 2002-2004.

David Mayley is owner of Pest Control Specialists in Bay St. Louis since 1996. A past president of the MS Pest Control Association, he was named 2002 New Rotarian for the District, and has served as Chair of Rotary Committees. During 2004, he is serving as Rotary President. During 2003, he served a one-year term as Presidential Appointment to the Hancock Chamber Board and served on the executive committee as an officer. A member of the Bay-Waveland School Board and Friends of the Animal Shelter, he was Chairman of the 2004 American Cancer Society Relay for Life. Married to Susanne with two children, he was named an Outstanding Citizen in 2004.

Stephanie McConnell is manager of the Bay St. Louis branch of Latter & Blum. Mother of three, she was an agent for nine years. Active in the community, she serves as a member of the Hancock County Library Foundation Board. Stephanie is also secretary of the Gulf Coast Association of Realtors Board of Directors, and is a graduate of Coast Realtor Leadership Program. She will soon graduate from the State Leadership Program. She and her husband moved to Waveland more than 13 years ago.

Mary M. Perkins is Public Affairs / Development Officer for Hancock County Library System. A native of Bay St. Louis, Mary has worked for the Library for 11 years. She served on the Chamber Board from 1976-1988, and in December she will complete another three-year term on the Board. For the past several years, she has served the Chamber as newsletter editor and as Chairman of the newly created Communications / Technology Committee.

Lauly Peterson is a community leader and developer. She and her husband Jerry have four children. They are owners of Statewide Insurance Agency, 2003 Kiln Area Business of the Year. They are also developers of Hancock Plaza and Magnolia Plaza in the Kiln. In 2003 and 2004, Lauly served as an ex-officio member of the Chamber Board. During 2003, she spearheaded an effort to establish a regular meeting with Kiln area businesses and local elected officials to discuss issues affecting the community. She and her husband are Chamber sponsors on the President's Council.

Randy Ponder is Editor and Publisher of the Sea Coast Echo. He has lived and worked in Bay St. Louis and Waveland since 1971. A Past President of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, he is a Board Member of the Mississippi Press Association. at the end of 2004 he will complete a one-year term on the Hancock Chamber Board.

Each member in good standing may vote for up to five (5) nominees per ballot. Official ballots must be returned to the Chamber Office on or before 5pm on November 1st. Ballots received after this time will be disallowed. Cumulative voting is not allowed. The number of ballots each regular member is entitled to is based on the total amount of dues investment divided by the base regular membership investment amount ($150) rounded to the nearest whole number.

Basil Kennedy of The Peoples Bank, and attorneys Steve Benvenutti and Brehm Bell have been appointed by the Chamber Board to supervise all segments of the election. The new directors will take office prior to the Annual Membership Meeting set for Friday, December 10th at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis. For more information, contact the Hancock Chamber at 467-9048.

Diluted earnings per share for the first nine months of 2004 were $1.39, compared to $1.19 for the same period in 2003, resulting in an increase of $0.20 per share, or 17 percent.

Net income for the third quarter of 2004 was $15.40 million, an increase of $1.74 million, or 13 percent, from the $13.66 million reported for the third quarter of 2003. Diluted earnings per share were $0.47 for the third quarter of 2004, compared to $0.41 for the third quarter of 2003, an increase of $0.06 per share, or 15 percent. Peoples Financial Corporation (NASDAQ: Small Cap: PFBX), parent of The Peoples Bank, reported net income for the nine months ended September 30, 2004, totaled $4,484,000, an increase of 23% over the same period in 2003.

Earnings per share for the nine-month period were $.81, compared to $.65 for the first nine months of 2003. Earnings per share are based on weighted average shares outstanding of 5,556,530 and 5,564,641 at September 30, 2004 and 2003, respectively.

Net income for the third quarter of 2004 was 5.6% lower than the same period the previous year. The reduction in net income was largely attributed to the loss of ATM fees in certain Mississippi Gulf Coast casinos, according to Chevis C. Swetman, chairman and chief executive officer of Peoples Financial Corporation.

Jackson Hewitt® Computerized Tax Course Starts Soon

Graduates say they have put their new skills to work!

"I loves it so much I decided to work part time during the tax season," said Joseph Rutkowski, a retiree from Hagerstown, MD.

He is referring to the Jackson Hewitt® Computerized Tax Course Offered at this time each year, it provides graduates with the tax knowledge and computer skills they need to prepare tax returns.

"I needed to supplement my retirement income. So last fall I heard about Jackson Hewitt's Computerized Income Tax Course. With the extra money I now make as a tax preparer, I am able to maintain a better standard of living."

The course takes six weeks to complete and gives graduates the necessary training to prepare individual tax returns and to potentially earn extra money during the tax season. Students meet two times a week to take the course that combines instructor-led training with self-paced learning on the computer. Students are given an overview from the instructor and then move on to the computer to learn more detailed information through a self-paced CD. Objective testing and reviews check the students' progress. By the end of the course, students will be armed with the tax knowledge generally needed for preparing tax returns. Upon completion, graduates may receive interviews for employment at a local Jackson Hewitt location.

From college students to military spouses to retirees, graduates of the computerized course improve themselves as well as their pocketbooks. Although some graduates have a background in accounting, many do not. However once they complete the course using state-of-the-art computerized equipment, they have no trouble preparing most tax returns.

For more information, please call 1-866-680-1040 or visit our website at www.jacksonhewitt.com

Most offices are independently owned and operated. Completion of this course is neither an offer nor a guarantee of employment.

Rocks win Battle of the Bay; Bay names complex for Weems

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Staff Writer

If you wanted some hard-hitting gridiron action, there was no need to look any further than Joe D. McCullough Stadium on Friday night. The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (6-1, 4-0) and the Bay High Tigers (4-4, 1-3) locked horns in a Division 8-4A battle. The Rocks claimed the hard-fought 42-21 win.

The game had a rivalry atmosphere from the first whistle. The Rocks chose to receive the kickoff and Josh Morgan took the short kick 74 yards for the score with 11:50 left in the opening quarter. The PAT was good making the score 7-0.

The Tigers had some speed of their own to show off, as well. On the first play from scrimmage, Antonio Hawkins took the pigskin 76 yards to light the scoreboard for Bay High with 11:22 left in the first quarter. The PAT kick was good tying the score at 7-7. Unfortunately, that would be as close as the Tigers would get to the Rocks.

SSC got the ball back on the ensuing kickoff. Rock quarterback Lance Cuevas hooked up with Stefan Sofianos for an 11-yard gain and a first down. Josh Duplessis followed that with a 14-yard gainer on the ground.

On the next play though, Brad Ladner, Steven Dauenhauer and Trevor Adam stuffed Duplessis for a loss. Following an incomplete pass, Duplessis ripped off a 23-yard run into Tiger territory with Lorenzo Lewis and Reggie Calhoun stopping a sure score.

Two plays later, Cuevas hooked up with Sofianos for a 17-yard score with 7:52 left in the first quarter. The PAT made the score 14-7.

The Rock defense, led by J.C. Brignone and Jordan Ellis, held the Tigers in check on their next possession forcing a three and out situation.

SSC had problems of their own on their next series. Michael Cure gained 9 yards followed by Duplessis' run of 17 yards. However, a mishandled snap on the next play resulted in a 12-yard loss. With the Rocks facing a second-and-long situation, Robert Labat intercepted a Rock pass and returned it to the Tiger 38 yardline.

The Tigers mounted a 9-play drive that took Bay High to the Rock 15 yardline; however, they turned the ball over on downs. SSC had to punt back to the Rocks after minimal gains on their next possession.

Tiger quarterback Corbin Blaize hooked up with Robert Labat for a 14-yard gain and a Tiger first down. Two nice gains by Hawkins and the Tigers seemed to be on the move. However, Rock safety Michael Cure intercepted an errant pass and returned it 55 yards for a score with 10:24 left in the first half. The PAT made the score 21-7.

The bad luck continued for the Tigers as Brennan Thomas intercepted the Tigers on the second play of the ensuing drive.

Duplessis had an 18-yard gain for a Rock first down and Jordan Ellis bulled his way for 10 yards and a first down before a penalty halted the Rocks' drive. Cory Thornton made two nice stops on both plays for the Tigers.

The two teams swapped the next two possessions before Bay High pulled to within a touchdown.

The Tigers took over on their own 33 yardline following a Rock punt. Blaize connected with Lewis on a 7-yard gain. On the next play, Rock linebacker Mike Deifik appeared to have returned a fumble 40 yards for a touchdown; however, the play was whistled dead and the Tigers retained possession. Two plays later, Blaize found Lewis for a 54-yard scoring strike with 3:02 left in the first half. The PAT was good making the score 21-14.

At halftime, the Bay-Waveland School District dedicated the baseball complex to Dr. Fred W. Weems and renamed it the Fred W. Weems Baseball Complex. Weems, who coached at both St. Stanislaus and Bay High, retired in 1994.

The Rocks were intercepted on their next series by Destin Thomas at the SSC 47 yardline. However, the Tigers were stopped by a pesky group of Rocks led by Ellis, Klein, Thomas and Sofianos. The first half ended in favor of SSC 21-14.

At halftime, the Bay-Waveland School District dedicated the baseball complex to Dr. Fred W. Weems and renamed it the Fred W. Weems Baseball Complex. Weems, who coached at both SSC and Bay High, retired in 1994. A story featuring the accomplishments of Weems will appear in a future edition.

The Tigers started the second half on offense. Blaize went to the air connecting with Destin Thomas for seven yards. Next, he hit Hawkins for an 8-yard gain for a Tiger first down. The Rocks stiffened on defense led by Brignone, Brett Bentz and Floyd Dedeaux and forced the Tigers to punt away.

Cuevas hit Sofianos for an 11-yard gain on third down to move the sticks for SSC. However, Brad Ladner smothered Cuevas in the backfield for a sack and loss of 9 yards on the next play. Duplessis gained 15 yards for SSC but the Rocks ended up having to punt away.

The Tigers had minimal gains but earned a first down on a Rock penalty on their next drive. In the end, the Tigers had to punt back to SSC after stalling out. Tony Marino pinned the Rocks at their own two yardline with a 32-yard punt.

The Rocks came out slinging the ball as Cuevas connected with Cure for a 53-yard gain into Tiger territory. But, another sack by Ladner and Dauenhauer resulted in a 9-yard loss and the Rocks had to punt away.

Blaize continued to stay with the aerial attack and connected with Dauenhauer; however, Klein stood Dauenhauer up long enough for Brignone to force a fumble. Zach Elkins recovered the loose ball for the Rocks at the Tiger 16 yardline.

Duplessis ran for 9 yards before having to cover a loose ball on the next play that cost the Rocks 6 yards. Cuevas scrambled for 13 yards and a first down at the Bay High one yardline. Klein bulled his way in the endzone from one-yard out on the next play. The PAT made the score 28-14 with 11:01 left in the game.

The Tigers completed a pass to Lewis for 6 yards on the next possession but were forced to punt away to SSC. The Rocks and the Tigers each traded possessions before SSC had a sustained drive. The Rocks took over on their own 47 yardline after a Tiger punt.

Duplessis ripped off six yards before Cuevas hit Ellis for an 18-yard gain. Klein gained a first down following a Bay High penalty. Two plays later, Cuevas found Sofianos for a 24-yard score with 4:16 left to play in the game. The PAT made the score 35-14.

Reggie Calhoun brightened the Tigers' box on the scoreboard with a 97-yard kickoff return with 4:01 left to play. The PAT was good making the score 35-21.

SSC recovered the onside kick attempt by the Tigers on the kickoff. Following carries of 15 and 12 yards by Klein, Cuevas found Sofianos for the final score of the game. Sofianos hauled in the touchdown catch with 1:27 remaining in the game. The PAT made the final score 42-21.

Cure stopped the final Tiger threat of the game with an interception.

Bay High head coach Brennan Compretta commented, "We could have done a better job of taking advantage of the opportunities we were given; however, penalties put us in bad positions. SSC took advantage of their breaks and adjusted to our speed in the second half. We head into our final two games with very strong opponents. We know that these are huge games and Trevor Adam and Steven Dauenhauer each had nine total stops.

SSC head coach Casey Wittmann stated, "We came out in the second half and played well. We made some good adjustments at half-time. Our offensive line was a disappointment tonight. The kids played very hard and I want to commend our staff for putting together a good plan. We have a game next week against Gautier for all the marbles. We need a solid week of practice and get prepared for them."

Duplessis led the Rocks with 19 carries for 120 yards. Sofianos had four catches for 56 yards and two touchdowns. Cuevas threw for 144 yards on 7-of-19 passing.

Defensively, the Rocks were led by Brignone with 9 total stops and a forced fumble. Cure also had two interceptions and five total tackles.

The Rocks will travel to Gautier on Thursday, October 21 to play the Gators in a pivotal Division 8-4A clash. The Bay High Tigers hit the road next Friday to take on the East Central Hornets.

Game time for both contests is 7:30 p.m.

we have to be prepared for them."

The Tigers had 100 yards rushing at halftime but ended the game with 77 yards net rushing led by Hawkins with 92 yards on 13 carries. Lewis had five catches for 92 yards and a score while Blaize threw for 131 yards on 13-of-37 passing. Defensively, the Tigers were led by Brad Ladner with 8 tackles including three quarterback sacks.

Hancock Hawks down Natchez 32-28

BY DWAYNE BREMER
Contributing Writer

At first glance, Friday night's game between the Hancock Hawks (1-7) and the Natchez Bulldogs (1-7), may have looked like a boring game between two bad teams. But after the game, the fans that left Brett Favre field had witnessed one of the best high school football games in quite a long time with the Hawks pulling out a thrilling 32-28 victory.

Hancock had not won a game all season, and were in the middle of a ten game losing streak coming into the game. The Hawks had been improving all season, and Friday night they played like champions in front of a large and loud homecoming crowd.

Hancock jumped out to a big lead, only to see the Bulldogs come back and retake the lead late in the game. The Hawks kept fighting, and with just :40 seconds left in the game, punched across the winning score.

"I say it every week, but I am just so proud of the kids. This is another step in the right direction. This was a team victory, but I'm extremely happy for our seniors," said Hawks head coach Walt Esslinger.

The Hawks came out with a ton of energy. They may have been a little too pumped up, as a fumble and a false start forced the team to punt on their first possession.

The Bulldogs took over, but the Hawks defense forced a three-and-out. Jonathan Lacoste, Kevin Lafontaine, and Brentley Necaise made stops of Bulldog runner Travis Washington to force a punt.

The Hawks took over at the 13, and began a seven-play drive that resulted in their first score. Braxton Necaise started things off with a ten yard run.

Mark Fairley then ran behind the blocking of Travis Hall and Anthony Lind on a 25-yard sweep. Fairley then ran for 13 yards, and Ronnie Thomas picked up five more. Andrew Smith busted up the middle for an 11-yard gain, and two plays later Thomas ran behind Hall and Lind again this time for a 20-yard touchdown. The point after was no good, but the Hawks had a 6-0 lead with 5:27 to play in the first quarter.

The Bulldogs took over at the 42 after the kickoff, but were stopped four plays later when Fairley intercepted a pass from Riley Trask at the Hawks 40.

Hancock quickly took advantage of the turnover when Braxton Necaise launched a bomb to Justin Kopf who made the catch in stride at the 30, turned on the speed, and took it to the house for a 60-yard touchdown.

The Hawks went for two and did not convert. The score was 12-0, with 3:37 to play in the first.

The Bulldogs took over at the 39 after the kickoff, and quickly responded. Trask took an option play around the right side, and ran all the way for a 61-yard touchdown. The point after failed, and the Hawks lead was cut to 12-6.

Hancock put together a nine-play drive to reach the Bulldogs 19. The Hawks were unable to convert when Necaise was intercepted by Samuel Washington at the 10.

The Hawks got the ball back after the Bulldogs drive stalled at the Hawks 33. Anthony Guidry got things started for Hancock with a three-yard run, and then Smith busted through the middle for a 60-yard run. The middle of the offensive line led by Scott Neson, Kalan Cuevas, and Colin Miller opened the hole, and Smith looked like a locomotive chugging down the field for the big gain. Smith was rewarded two plays later, punching in a three-yard touchdown. The two-point try was no good, but the Hawks had a 18-6 lead, with 4:51 to play in the second quarter.

The Hawks defense got the ball right back as Andrew Warhay intercepted a pass from Trask at the 40. Warhay returned the ball 20-yards, and the Hawks were in business again at the Bulldog 20.

Hancock would convert six plays later when Fairley ran in a four yard-touchdown. Justin Ratcliff added the point after to give the Hawks a 25-6 lead with just :50 seconds to play in the half.

The Bulldogs got the ball to start the second half, and they put together a nice drive to get back into the game. After a 12-play drive, Trask scooted in from 16 yards for the score. The extra point failed, and the score was 25-12, with 6:44 to play in the third.

The Bulldogs got the ball right back after a Hawks fumble, and four plays later they were in the end zone again, as Washington score from 12-yards out. Trask ran in the two-point conversion, and suddenly the Hawks lead was reduced to 25-20.

The Hancock offensive would answer the call and responded with a nine play drive. Fairley ripped off runs of 12, 8, and 13, as the Hawks pushed inside the Bulldog 20. The drive stalled, and Ratcliff was called on to attempt a 30-yard field goal. The kick was wide right, and with just :10 seconds to play in the third the Bulldogs took over.

The Bulldogs took over at the 20, and drove the ball sixteen plays for the go-ahead score. The drive took nearly eight minutes off the clock, and was aided by a costly pass interference call on the Hawks. Trask hit Charles Cothorn on an 11-yard touchdown pass to cap the drive. Trask then ran in the two-point conversion, and with 4:27 to play the Bulldogs led for the first time 28-25.

Hancock was up to the challenge and showed their homecoming crowd what they were made of in their final drive. Taking over at the 34 Fairley started things off with runs of six and eight. Smith then bulldozed over right tackle for a 24-yard gain. After Fairley pounded out another first down, the Hawks would be faced with a third and 12 at the 20 with 1:35 to play.

Hancock took a time out, and on the third down play, Necaise spotted Fairley over middle. Fairley made a great catch as was hampered by two defenders at the six-yard line for 14 yards and a first down. After two short runs, the Hawks were once again face with a third down.

The Hawks then made the play of the game. Fairley took an end-around and after good blocking, he scored from four yards out. The large Hawks crown erupted in celebration.

There was great blocking on the play by the entire line, but the seal block by Russell Tanguis sprung the play to the end zone. "I saw the guy looking inside. When Mark got the ball, I made the block and it was all over", Tanguis said. Ratcliff added the point after, and with just 40 seconds to play the Hawks had regained the lead 32-28.

The game was not over, however, as the Hawks had to kick the ball back to the Bulldogs. Ratcliff kicked the ball low to the ground, and it bounced right off of a Bulldog. The ball bounced right back to Ratcliff, who fell on the ball at the 42. The Hawks had the lead and the ball with just :38 seconds to play. The Hawks would kneel on the ball, and the celebration was on.

"It feels great. The whole team did a great job, and I'm so happy I could cry," said senior Jonathan Lacoste.

The Hawks were led by the running of Fairley and Smith. Fairley had a great game as he carried 27 times for 190 yards, he also collected and interception and had the key third down reception on the final drive. Smith ran hard for 118 yards on 14 carries.

The Hawks rushed the ball for 373 yards and finished with 450 yards of total offense.

"The line did a great job. We challenged them at half time, and they came through on the final drive", said offensive line coach Michael Gaudin.

The Hawks will travel to Picayune next week, and after a trip to Meridian, the Hawks will finish their season at home against Hattiesburg in three weeks.

Annexation -- Bay, Waveland

Waveland expense has covered a mandatory land use ordinance, the annexation feasibility study, and a hazard mitigation study.

Bay St. Louis' bills, meanwhile, have mounted to $94,596.51, covering consulting and legal fees, city officials said Thursday. The city's new budget sets aside another $150,000 for annexation costs.

Both cities are hoping to enlarge their boundaries along Highway 603, taking in residential and commercial properties. In many places, the two annexation attempts overlap — including the crown jewel of contention: lands at the interchange of I-10 and Highway 603.

While the preparatory costs have mounted outside the courtroom, Waveland Mayor Tommy Longo and Bay St. Louis Mayor Eddie Favre say a costly phase of the litigation has just gone into motion: sworn depositions.

Waveland officials have started the deposition work for more than a dozen Bay officials, including the mayor, police and fire chief, and several department heads. The list even includes depositions that Waveland wants to take from the Bay's annexation consultants.

Bay St. Louis, meanwhile, plans only three depositions: one from the mayor and two from planners.

Favre said the Bay's attorneys told him "there's really no need" for many depositions. "Why waste the money on something that will add nothing, actually," to the court case, he asked.

The Bay's special annexation attorney, Jerry L. Mills, said setting only three depositions will help keep the Bay's costs down. "We're trying to wisely spend the resources of Bay St. Louis. They (Waveland) on the other hand..." He didn't finish that sentence.

But Butterworth said the number of depositions each side has decided on merely reflects differing legal strategies.

Both cities filed annexation cases in Chancery Court in June 2003. The two cases were consolidated as one, since they largely deal with the same property.

An attempt to compromise by dividing up the properties was made last July, resulting in two closed meetings between the Waveland Board of Aldermen and the Bay St. Louis City Council. Some say that after the second of those meetings, it was clear no compromise was attainable.

But Longo and Favre both said last week compromise is still very much a possibility.

"You never know," said Longo of a compromise. "It could happen. It's one of those things you kind of wait until the time is right."

Longo said a settlement is possible "until the day we enter court... I would love to get it done before the depositions," he said. "That's when the meter really starts ticking."

Longo noted that he and Favre have discussed compromise several times, aside from the meetings between the two cities' governing bodies. "Eddie and I actually were closer than what the boards came up with," said Longo. And after the first meeting of the board and council, "I was extremely hopeful and had paper work actually drawn up" to make a settlement.

Favre is equally hopeful that a compromise can be reached before next month's trial. "I still think there's a possibility of it. I think there's a definite need for it, for sure. As it gets closer... then it will be time to see."

Longo said the contention between his city and the Bay in some ways is like football rivalry between two nearby schools. Each side, he said, has its governing body and "the whole community pushing you in one direction. It's almost like a crosstown football rivalry. Where... they're pushing their team and not dealing from a point of reality. There's very high emotion in both communities and on both councils."

Longo said his board has been told the court case could cost Waveland up to $400,000 if a compromise isn't reached and the matter goes to an appeal from the court's decision. "I don't think anybody's best interest is served by going to court on this thing," the mayor added.

Waveland recently filed an amended complaint in the case, to clarify a boundary within the area that the city is seeking to annex.

Aside from the upcoming depositions, the next date for the case comes on Nov. 18, when pre-trial motions are scheduled to be heard.

Fainting goats, coy dogs and cow-muck dams

Views From a Front Porch

(The following is taken from my new Audio-Book CD, "Other Views From The Porch." I will do readings from the CD this coming Wednesday, 20 October, between 5 and 7 PM at the Pass Christian Bookstore. I would be very happy if you could come by. Stella will be there and we will have some of her home-made Pound-Cake.)

Stella and I were having a late snack at a small cafe in Pass Christian. We were joined by a couple of friends and more than a couple of glasses of wine. We told stories and soon, Amy, the owner, joined us and time stretched on.

It was Agnes that started what I am about to talk about. She began by telling of her experiences up north, up around Starkville, Mississippi. She stopped abruptly and turning to Stella and I asked, "Have you all ever heard of 'fainting goats'?"

"Fainting what?!"

"Goats, they're a type goat that falls over in a faint at any sudden noise."

I stared at her. Maybe it was the wine.

"It's true. They're goats that just keel over when there's a big noise. They lay there sort of like possums."

There was a blank silence all about the table and Agnes plunged on. "They're a little smaller than regular goats. I'm not sure what makes them faint. I think it's genetic or something. I'm told that there is a movement to try to get people to stop breeding them, but people keep doing it. I guess they're the kind of people that think it's cute or fun or something, sort of a CEHey watch what my goat can do! type thing."

"Anyway," she said hurrying on with her story. "There was an woman about eighty something years old that lived near us had a bunch of fainting goats. They're a lot friendlier than regular goats and she kept them as company. She was always complaining to everyone

'Hope springs eternal'

The Hope Haven Children's Shelter for Neglected and Abused Children. Hope Haven director Terry Latham and his daughter, shelter assistant manager Valarie Edenfield have devoted the past ten years of their lives to making the organization a success.

Hope Haven celebrates 10th anniversary

BY BENNIE SHALL BETTER
Staff Writer

When the first child arrived at the Hope Haven Children's Shelter for Neglected and Abused Children in 1996, the shelter staff had been undergoing training, and practicing operations for about two weeks. But nothing could prepare them for the arrival of "Bubba."

"Bubba" was three years old, a local child, who had been sexually abused by both parents, who had video taped the abuse. He was still in diapers and frightened even to have his diaper changed. He would not allow anyone to look at him while he was unclothed and diaper changes and baths had to be accomplished with turned heads. Bubba would point to the worker that he would allow to touch him on any given day, said director Terry Latham.

Until then, Latham said, his role in the formation of the agency had been more from a business perspective, with the day to day dollars and cents operations in mind. But seeing the loving care over the next six months turn the traumatized three year old, from a frightened and barely functioning child into a laughing, fairly well adjusted little boy, made him realize that he and the other staff literally had the lives of the children who came to them in their hands.

After that first six months when "Bubba" left on his way to adoption and a normal life, Latham and other organizers knew that their idea for helping children had become a lifelong cause. Since that first child, over 2,500 children have stayed at the shelter, mostly local, victims of abuse that the public rarely hears because the Department of Human Services is prohibited by law from releasing any reports to the public or the media. Much more abuse goes unreported. It is a matter of out of sight, out of mind, said assistant shelter manager Valarie Edenfield, who has been with Hope Haven since the beginning. "People don't want to know. It makes them uncomfortable," she said.

AmeriCorps volunteers helped in the remodeling of the new Hope Haven Children's shelter which offers neglected and abused children a safe place to be.

"When people find out what I do, they want to change the subject," Edenfield said. "It's a job you can't leave at work so you take it home." And for many of the key staffers and founders, that intense involvement has contributed to health problems.

Edenfield started out as cook recruited by her father, Latham, when no one answered the ad placed in the paper. He was serving as shelter manager at the time and knew his daughter was a good cook and had some business experience. It didn't take long for Valarie and those working with her to realize that she was a natural for organizing the day to day operations at the shelter and at giving the children the gentle care they required. She has become a pillar at the shelter.

"We could not have made it without Valarie's help," said Latham. "It is difficult to get and keep good trained staff at the shelter."

Though wages have risen, many staffers have to work more than one job. In the beginning, many people worked more than one shift at the shelter. The shelter began as kind of a family effort. Board members helped decorate the home.

Administrative costs at Hope Haven remained low over the years at around 5 percent of the budget, only recently rising to about 12 percent, still far from the recommended 25 percent ceiling for administrative costs for non-profits, Latham said. Staff is required to put in between 25,000 and 30,000 hours yearly to meet requirements.

The shelter operates 24 hours a day. A minimum of two staffers must be at the shelter at all times, even nights, because children sometime show up at all hours of the night without even a call to advise the staff of their arrival. Pulled from their homes, they may arrive crying and upset, and social workers bring them directly to the shelter to make the transition smoother.

The main objective for the shelter is to provide intermediate attention to children who have been traumatized. They feel abandoned and betrayed and many want to go back home no matter what the conditions were there because they are frightened, said Latham. But 80 percent of the children who pass through the doors of Hope Haven never return home.

Many people have a view of the shelter and its workers as glorified caregivers, but there is much more to it, said Latham. The children who come to the shelter may have severe emotional or mental trauma and through the years there have been eight or nine suicide attempts. Workers must fill the void of lost parents while at the same time being careful not to judge those parents in front of their children. No matter how bad the case, staffers must never insult a child's parents or speak badly of them.

For many of the children, it is the first time they have experienced anything resembling a normal home situation where they must be on time to school, do homework. The children are met at the bus, helped with homework; lunches are prepared. For some, it is the first time that anyone has told them the importance of school, or even

Make-A-Wish looking for enthusiastic volunteers

THE SEA COAST ECHO
 The Make-A-Wish Foundation of Mississippi is looking for enthusiastic and committed volunteers who are interested in helping through Wish granting, fundraising, or special events. A Wish Granter Training Session will be held Wednesday, Oct. 20 starting at 5:30 p.m. at the Beau Rivage Resort in Azalea Room B. This training session will introduce adults to the Make-A-Wish Foundation and prepare them to become "messengers of joy."

Last year the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Mississippi granted 22 wishes to children on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Presently, Make-A-Wish has over a dozen children from all across the six coastal counties of Mississippi. "We are in need of many more volunteers from the Coast area," said Shellie Moses, Gulf Coast Director. "Volunteers are the heart and soul of our organization. They are the reason we are able to continue to grant these wonderful wishes each year." We encourage everyone who is interested in volunteering with Make-A-Wish to come to the training session.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation® of Mississippi is a non-profit organization that grants the wishes of children with life-threatening medical conditions to enrich the human experience with hope, strength and joy.

What is Art? Mrs. Chamberlain's 4th grade class Second Street Elementary

Darden: Art is drawing something. You use pencils, paint, pens, and markers. With art you can draw patterns and actual things. Most people draw normal things.

I prefer patterns. Art is something you visualize. It's your creation. Art can be very entertaining. It's one thing you can do by yourself. Art is never ugly. It's just your style of drawing. Just because someone else thinks it is dumb that doesn't make it true. Some people draw in just straight lines, some people draw lots of circles.

Brett: Art is where you use a blank piece of paper that you can draw and color on.

Danisha: Art is a class where a teacher teaches you how to do art. I want to be an art teacher.

Jewel: Art is colorful colors that are bright. Some are not bright, too. It's fun to do if you are bored. Some people like art, and some people don't like art. I love art very much. Art puts smiles on some people's faces. It makes them happy again. Art brings out some colors to show people that art is fun to do.

Taylor M. Art is when you draw. You also color too. It is a colorful subject. You can draw different things. It's fun. First you can draw, and then you can color. You don't have to color; it just makes it more real.

Laranne: Art is when you draw something first. First you draw the outline. Then you add a little detail. Then you color it. After that you draw the background. Then you're done.

Brad: Art is a drawing from an artist. Also art is made of pretty colors mixed up to make cool pictures. And once whoever saw it, will think the artist is famous.

Klara: Art is when you draw. You also do painting. When you paint or draw you can express yourself. Art is something you can learn to draw or paint. Art is very cool, because get to express yourself.

Tres: Art is a good drawing of something that has been worked hard on and kept in your house. It is called Art.

Trevor: Art is a beautiful drawing that someone draws. Art comes from the heart. An artist feels art. Not all artists draw for money.

Megan: Art is something fun to do. People do art to express themselves. People might feel sad and do dark colors. Art can be fun and creative in many ways. People all over the world enjoy art.

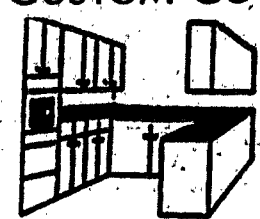

When you do art, it is not something you must do; it is something you just do. You might feel great when you have accomplished something so wonderful. Art is something made for people to enjoy.

William: Art is a drawing

Vincent Van Gogh and some other people you can learn about. You can even do art at your home, too. Art is very wonderful. You can try and even if you get mad it is all right. You can try again.

John Michael: Art is the place at school where you learn how to draw and paint and have fun drawing.

- Kid's fishing rodeo, catch and release
- Schooners, oyster tongs
- Christmas on the Water

Entries should be on 8 1/2" x 11" paper. Any media (e.g., pen and ink, colored pencil, acrylics, charcoal, pastels, collage, water color, etc.) may be used. Orientation of art must be horizontal.

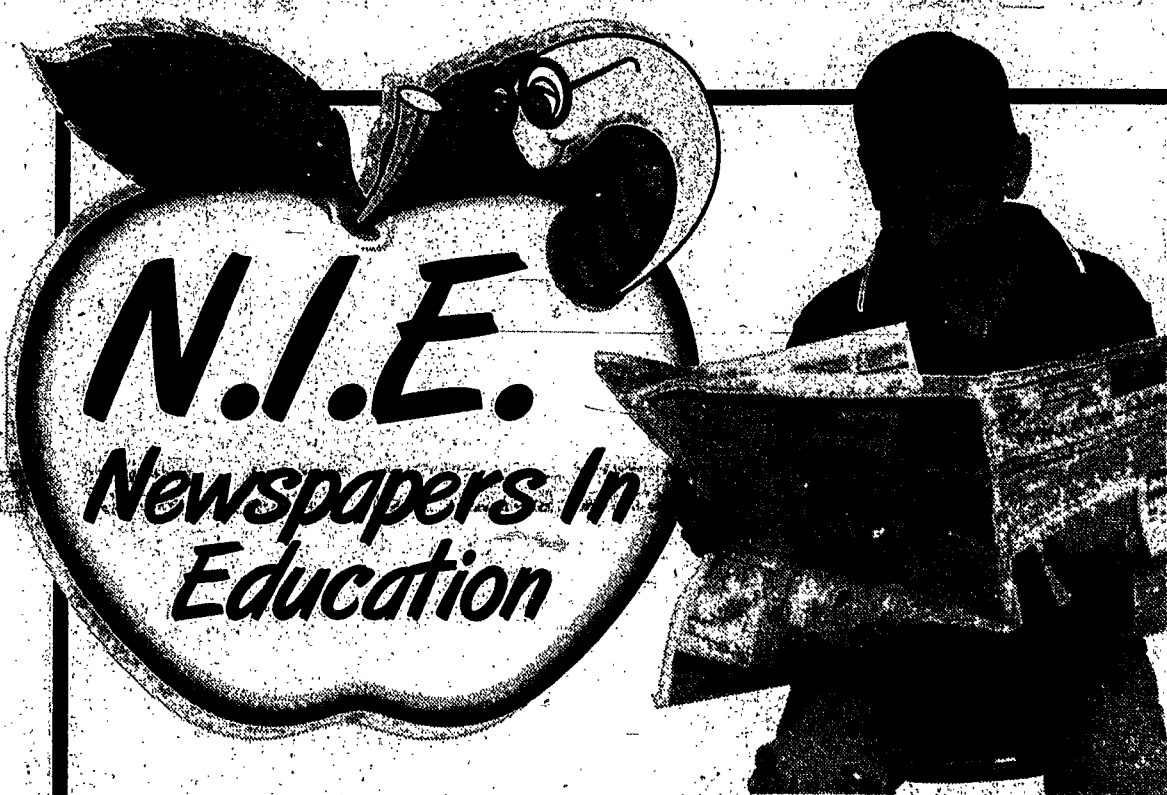

Please include the artist's name, age, grade, school name and hometown on the back of the submitted artwork. For more information, please contact Susan Perkins at (228) 374-5022, ext. 5062, or susan.perkins@dmr.state.ms.us.

If a sufficient number of entries from which to choose are not received by the Nov. 1 deadline, the Department of Marine Resources reserves the right to cancel publication of its 2005 calendar. All entries become the property of the Department of Marine Resources.

The Mississippi Department of Marine Resources is dedicated to enhancing, protecting and conserving marine interests of the State by managing all marine life, public trust wetlands, adjacent uplands and waterfront areas to provide for the optimal commercial, recreational, educational and economic uses of these resources consistent with environmental concerns and social changes.

Gulf of Mexico program joins Hancock County High students, Bay-Waveland Girl Scouts in World Water Monitoring Day

THE SEA COAST ECHO

As part of World Water Monitoring Day, Gulf of Mexico Program employees will assist girls from Bay-Waveland's Girl Scout Cadet Troop 380, Oct. 17 and join students from Hancock County High School's college level Environmental Science class Oct. 18 to test the waters in Watts Bayou and at Bayou La Terre for levels of dissolved oxygen, turbidity, temperature, and pH levels.

World Water Monitoring Day coincides with the 32nd anniversary of the Clean Water Act and culminates a month of water quality monitoring activities in which educators, families, volunteer water monitoring organizations, and agency professionals are encouraged to take water quality samples, share their data, and educate themselves and their communities about water quality. Participants use a simple test kit to take water quality samples in their local streams, bayous, and wetlands, and then enter their data into an international database.

"The more we know about conditions in our water bodies, the better equipped we are to manage the problems that affect them," said Bryon O. Griffith, Director of the Gulf of Mexico Program. "Water monitoring continues to be one of the most important tools available to the Gulf States and their local communities. This is particularly true of coastal communities whose economy is so inter-dependent with the quality and sustainability of their ecology and environment. EPA's Office of Water and the Gulf of Mexico Program are privileged to have the opportunity to support these students in their efforts to serve as community ambassadors in spreading the word about the importance of water monitoring."

Monitoring provides answers to basic questions regarding swimming safely, safely eating the fish we catch and whether or not the waters are improving. The EPA and the Gulf of Mexico Program are working to build partnerships with other federal agencies, states, local governments, watershed groups, the private sector, and the public to improve the comprehensiveness and effectiveness of water monitoring programs.

World Water Monitoring Day is planned and organized by America's Clean Water Foundation and the International Water Association, in partnership with a number of other organizations including the EPA.

Last year, about 5,275 sites were registered worldwide, and people in 23 countries participated.

Four basic parameters were chosen for testing on World Water Monitoring Day because of their simplicity and usefulness in screening water for potential problems.

Temperature is measured because some aquatic animals, such as trout and salmon, are sensitive to changes in water temperature and require a certain temperature range to survive and thrive. Temperature also affects the amount of oxygen water can hold - cold water hold more oxygen than warm water.

All aquatic animals need oxygen and in water, oxygen exists in a dissolved form known as DO. DO fluctuates naturally, depending on the time of day and temperature. Many aquatic organisms are sensitive to fluctuations of DO or low levels of DO, which can result from too many nutrients or organic wastes in water.

The pH levels tell us the acidity or alkalinity of water.

Many aquatic organisms are adapted to a specific pH range and can die if it varies too much. Pollution like acid rain or mine drainage can affect pH levels.

Turbidity measures water clarity. Turbid water has suspended matter in it, like silt, bits of plants, or algae. If water is too turbid, it can keep sunlight from reaching aquatic plants. Too much suspended matter in the water can smother fish eggs and the streambed where aquatic bugs live. Erosion and runoff from farms and construction sites can increase turbidity.

Gulf of Mexico Program employees will also be participating in World Water Monitoring Day events in Slidell and Cutoff, La.. For more information visit the web site found at www.worldwatermonitoringday.org. The Gulf of Mexico Program is underwritten by the Environmental Protection Agency and is a non-regulatory, inclusive consortium of state and federal government agencies and representatives of the business and agricultural community, fishing industry, scientists, environmentalists, and community leaders from all five Gulf States.

Gulf of Mexico program awards grant to Hancock

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Gulf of Mexico Program recently awarded a grant for $19,035 to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for a project called "Communicating Wetlands Education for Students Today," or CWEST.

CWEST is an educational trail and outdoor classroom for students of the Bay-Waveland School District and residents of the local community.

CWEST complements and is a collaborative project with the Hancock County Greenways Plan.

A trail design was developed through the Greenways Project and will provide incentives for Pearl River Community College to develop a class plan to teach building technology students about environmental best management practices (BMPs), environmental permitting and environmental regulations.

"This project will preserve valuable wetlands and improve coastal habitat by educating students about the environmental value of these productive areas" said Bryon O. Griffith, Gulf of Mexico Program Director.

"Preserved wetlands provide flood control, improve water quality, reduce erosion, and provide critically important habitat for many fish and wildlife species," he added. Members of the Bay/Waveland school district envisioned CWEST as a trail leading to a wetlands site on the campus of the Bay St. Louis High, Middle, and North Bay Elementary Schools. The students will use science and technical tools and skills to evaluate the wetland area.

This project supports EPA and Gulf of Mexico Program goals to have healthy communities and ecosystems and to prevent water pollution and protect aquatic species in order to improve the health of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Gulf of Mexico Program is underwritten by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and is a non-regulatory, inclusive consortium of state and federal government agencies and representatives of the business and agricultural community, fishing industry, scientists, environmentalists, and community leaders from all five Gulf States.

Prayerful for All Things

Several years ago, I recall talking to some friends, and I mentioned the terrible day that I was having. I went on to say that nothing seemed to be going right and that as the day progressed I was getting more behind in my work. One of my friends said that I should pray about this and thank God for my daily problems. This struck me as kind of odd, because although I was aware that we should be thankful to God for all His many blessings, I didn't realize that we should also be thankful for our problems and difficult situations. Later on, I was referring to the Bible and I found the following verses: "give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God's will for you..." (1 Thessalonians 5:18). And although I had read this verse before, this time the words "all circumstances" really struck me. And then, in Ephesians 5:20, I read that we should always give thanks to God the Father for everything in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. Surely it is not always easy to be prayerful or thankful to God for everything, especially when troubles or illnesses come our way; however, accepting God's will for our lives reflects the trust and love we have for Him.

Be anxious for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication, let your requests be made known to God.

Bits of ignorance can kill you

A transformer just blew up on the telephone post outside I called Entergy!

William, the near-by Bed and Breakfast caretaker, nervously interrupted my history lecture tour of our church and our suburb Tremé. Poking my head out the church, I was amazed to see the wooden crossbar split in half and a hotwire dangling on the sidewalk.

As soon as the lecture was done and the tourists had filed out of the church, I went back out to study the hotwire's possible threat to passersby. Dangerous-looking it was indeed, but at least it was not one of the high-tension wires from the topmost wires on the post. Still, even those lower-tension wires are potential killers.

Fully expecting Entergy to hustle out as soon as possible, we became antsy when minutes quickly stretched into an hour. Fortunately, a knowledgeable neighbor, Cabe Lee, called 911. This brought a fire truck out in short order. The truck crew called Entergy, then settled down nearby to stand watch until Entergy arrived. "That's the way to get Entergy out right away," Cabe observed. "You call 911, and the firemen will call Entergy just as soon as they get to the scene and view the damage."

At one point in the very light rain, I was walking along the fallen hotwire, keeping myself at a distance of about 5 feet. The firemen quickly motioned me back with a strong hand gesture. Cabe explained their stern warning: "Juice from that wire will move along the wet pavement, and it will even jump up to get you at a slight distance."

Needless to say, I stepped back in a hurry. Sure, for years I had heard about electricity creeping along wet tree limbs and wet ground, not to mention metal fences and metal pipes. But this leaping up at a distance was brand new to me. It got my full attention.

With its bright-red exterior and ominously flashing lights, the fire truck lured even more curious neighbors out of their houses to view the high drama which was unfolding before their very eyes. All this was heightened by the quick arrival of an Entergy truck.

"The Park Commission takes a dim view of our cutting tree branches," an Entergy man observed. "However we have to do whatever it takes to remedy this situation."

It so happened that they did have to cut a few branches in order to secure the hotwire with a clamp, then stretch it back to the telephone post where it could be spliced and anchored at the point where the wooden crossbar had been split.

Professionalism ruled the day, as the crack Entergy crew completed their repair task within a half hour. The partial blackout triggered by the transformer explosion was over.

"That is a temporary repair job," one of the Entergy crew advised us. "We will soon return to replace all the affected wires and to replace the broken wooden crossbar."

Reading about electricity jumping up from a fallen hotwire to hit a bystander is one thing which may or may not make a deep impression on the reader. Standing near a fallen hotwire and being warned by firemen that juice may jump up to get you is quite another thing. This does make an impression which is seared into one's consciousness.

What happened to us Tremé citizens on that day of the transformer explosion was a microcosm of similar events around the country and indeed around the world. Especially at times of earthquakes and stormy weather, when many transformers pop and numerous hotwires go down, little bits of safety knowledge can mean life or death for us.

As an appendage to the peculiar scenarios about fallen hotwires, lightning has its own unique ways of electrifying various objects. Again, water is a conductor of which we must all be wary. I am a live witness from adolescent days of a lightning water strike about a mile away which shocked a score of us swimming in Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

Water as a conductor of lightning makes it very risky for us to shower, bathe or wash dishes during a lightning storm. For the same reason, a lightning storm tells us we have no business being around water pipes or any other metal pipes for that matter.

Lightning will walk a metal fence for blocks or as long as the fence stretches out. Any contact we have with a metal fence or with any metal or water touching it puts us in jeopardy of being electrocuted during a thunderstorm. Apparently unbeknown to most people, lightning will walk your telephone top, injuring a handful of people annually.

Of course, hurricanes, with an abundance of deadly winds, water and lightning, are a fully-loaded, prime stage for disasters waiting to happen. Then, the biggest problem is that, no matter where you go, short of evacuating, there is too much wind, too much lightning, too many loose wires and too much water to avoid all conductors of electricity.

Unfortunately, we saw all this recently in the pitiful plight of the people of Haiti where Hurricane Jeanne left 1200 known dead, about 2000 missing, and incredible devastation on all sides. Alongside the threat of cholera from polluted water came the unmentionable stench of putrefying human and animal corpses. People held their noses just to bear up.

Bits of ignorance can kill them and us. Learn whatever you can about dangers to be avoided and safety measures to be followed in perilous times. Boil all water before using. Wash your hands often if you have sanitized water. Neither eat nor drink anything which appears to be spoiled. Avoid all contact with downed electrical wires and dead bodies.

By all means, learn all the rules of safety and follow them. Remember, safety experts agree that no one on the Titanic would have died had safety rules been followed by the ship's captain, by his crew and by the passengers after being instructed by the crew.

Scripture Says . . .
By Ed Young

Christ and the U.S. Constitution

Should the members of the "Body of Christ" get involved in politics?

Most church leaders believe we should. The fact is that for years the church stood by and watched the ACLU help destroy the Christian belief in public places and schools.

Prayer and the Christian literature were not allowed in our public schools to be read or even mentioned in class.

However, the truth is finally coming out - that the methods used by the ACLU are unconstitutional.

A student can read his Bible; he can pray and talk to others about his faith, as long as it doesn't disrupt the daily school functions.

Rulings: Mergens decisions, the Tinker decision - First Amendment, Free speech guaranteed."

Why is the writer of the column "The Scripture says" writing about constitutional law?

The reason is to wake up Christians to seek the truth. We all must play a part in fighting against anti-Christian organizations.

The Bible says the truth shall make you free.

Here's a very informative book to have. It tells of your rights, The Christian, The Court and the Constitution, Your Rights as a Christian Citizen.

Christ our prophet

A basic form of rebellion in any society, including our own, is rebellion against authority. The 1960s were a particular period of revolt against all types of authority, from the authority of parents to the authority of government. Today, while there is a massive distrust of authority, many individuals set themselves up as their own authorities. Whatever they believed is right or wrong, is right or wrong for them. This goes to show that we need some form of authority. We need guidelines for living. We need to know what is right and what is wrong. God is the authority who has the wisdom and power to tell us what is right and wrong. He sent His Son, the Lord Jesus Christ into the world to explain His will to us. Yes, Jesus Christ came into the world to be our prophet, to tell us the will of God for our salvation. Now don't start talking about that salvation stuff. I don't need salvation. That's where you are wrong. If you reject the authority of God over your life, you are in rebellion against God. You need salvation! You need the great prophet of God, the Lord Jesus Christ. You don't need other so-called prophets who don't really have authority. You need to listen to Jesus Christ. Long ago "the multitudes were amazed at His teaching; for He was teaching them as one having authority" (Matthew 7:28-29). Christ speaks with authority today, too.

First, He speaks from the pages of the Bible. Second, He opens people's hearts to understand the message of the Bible. In this way Christ reveals God's will to us. Isn't it time that you understood God's will for you?

Fifteen NAVOCEANO employees take ocean science to the Delta

THE SEA COAST ECHO
Fifteen employees at the Naval Oceanographic Office (NAVOCEANO) in south Mississippi are helping map something different in the Mississippi Delta this fall.

As part of the U.S. Navy's annual Ocean Science Mentoring Program, the employees have volunteered as mentors to 10 Coahoma Community College (CCC) students in Clarksdale, Miss., and as motivational speakers for Delta-area high school students as part of NAVOCEANO's annual Ocean Science Mentoring Program.

The Ocean Science Mentoring Program is designed to stimulate students' interests in math and science education and related occupational fields.

The motivational speakers travel to Delta high schools and answer questions about college, the Navy, science, math, obstacles they have overcome in their personal careers and challenges they face today. The mentors are paired with a student, based on their common interests.

Most NAVOCEANO mentors work as physical scientists, oceanographers, hydrographers and computer scientists at Stennis Space Center, Miss.

Together the mentor and student develop an individual math- or science-based project on which to work for the next six to seven months in addition to their schoolwork. Some past projects have included studying world ocean currents, examining software engineering and development processes and measuring sound velocity.

As part of the U.S. Navy's annual Ocean Science Mentoring Program, 15 employees at the Naval Oceanographic Office (NAVOCEANO) have volunteered as mentors to 10 Coahoma Community College (CCC) students in Clarksdale, Miss., and as motivational speakers for Delta-area high school students as part of NAVOCEANO's annual Ocean Science Mentoring Program.

Their final task in the program requires each student to present his or her conclusions and findings at a public forum of U.S. Navy officials, CCC administration and family and friends. Students are questioned about specifics on their projects and are expected to know the answers.

Upon completion of the project, the students share $25,000 in scholarship monies to help them continue their education at CCC or further their education at a 4-year college or university.

NAVOCEANO mentors include Glen Boyer, Alvin Cajigas, Stanley Harvey, Paul Jacques, Michael Jeffries, Chandler Johnson, Rebecca Lovingood, Gabrielle Malley, Calvin Martin, Andrea Meranto, Kendall Mitchell, Giovanni Morris, Horace Spencer, Kathryn Townsend and BMC (SW/SCW) Cecil Watt.

Founded in 1949, CCC offers a variety of programs in the academic, vocational and technical areas to serve the community's educational and training needs. CCC is Mississippi's only historically African-American community college in the state.

Located at Stennis Space Center, Miss., NAVOCEANO employs approximately 1,100 civilian and military personnel and is responsible for providing oceanographic products and services to all elements within the Department of Defense.

Views -- fainting goats about coy dogs getting into her yard and making the goats faint and S%.

"Coy what?!" This was Stella. "Come on, you know what coy dogs are." Agnes was now getting a little exasperated by the reactions her story was getting. I was wisely keeping quiet and was reaching for some more wine. "Coy dogs are a mix between a regular dog and a coyote. I remember that they were pretty bad near Starkville. Seems that some of the local dogs managed to get together with some coyotes and we started seeing some weird looking coy dogs."

Stella nodded as if she knew what Agnes was talking about and I leaned forward with an earnest look on my face as she continued her story.

"The old woman would sit by her window for hours with a .22 and shot at anything she thought was coming after her goats. When she fired, all the goats would fall down and she would see whatever it was that was after them. Then she'd nail it."

"She had a friend about as old as she was living next door. The friend was very spry for her age and had a running feud with the farmer up from her who used to pen his cattle up near their common creek. At times, especially in heavy spring rains, the manure from those cows would float down the creek and dam up in the creek bed beside her property."

"When this happened, the woman would get a pair of old high top boots on and a rake and, as she used to say it, Cgo clear the creek. Well, at the time I'm talking about, she was breaking up the cow muck dam with the rake when she slipped on the stone bottom of the creek."

Agnes stopped and looked around at her now fully attentive audience. "Well, you can imagine how slippery that manure must have made the limestone creek bed." I nodded agreeably. Stella nodded agreeably. Everyone at the table nodded agreeably.

"Well, when she fell down in that cold water with all that muck, her boots filled up completely. When she tried to sit up in the shallow water and take off the boots, she found she had broken her wrist. She couldn't get her boots off with just one hand and it was hard to walk with the boots filled with what they were filled with."

"She lurched around a bit and then decided to stagger across the creek to her neighbor with the fainting goats and get help. When she got into her neighbor's yard and the entire flock of goats came running up to her and bang, a gun went off. Well, sir, when that happened all the goats fell down and the old women fell down! And that charged her neighbor waving the .22, ready to finish her off."

By now several more people had joined us and we all sat, mesmerized by Agnes's tale.

"When the old woman saw who it was, she got scared and started yelling that she thought her friend Cwas a coy dog and oh my god, what a smell. What have you been doing? Her friend explained about falling in the creek and her broken wrist and that what she really, really wanted in the whole world was help in taking those boots off."

"With this, the goat woman hurried back to the house, stepping carefully over the fainting goats, assuring her friend that she was going to call another neighbor to come help. CHe'll know what to do. He's a Canadian! The rest of Agnes's story was sort of anticlimactical. The neighbor finally came and despite his national origin managed to slip while tugging on the foul boots and pulling the poor woman down, broke her tailbone. They had to finally get an ambulance that took the poor woman twenty bone-jarring miles to the hospital where the first thing the admitting nurse wanted to know was how did the accident occur."

We all laughed and Amy started to close things up for the night and Stella and I got in the car and headed home. It was quiet during the twenty minutes or so it took Stella to drive across the Bay bridge and then down the beach to our house. Finally, as Stella was pulling into the driveway, she said with an air of respectful awe, "An old woman with fainting goats?"

"Yeah!" I said thinking back over the long evening. "Her story did seem to ramble a bit. But by gosh it sure had some interesting characters."

good hygiene.

But all is not just lessons. Hope Haven also provides many of the children with the first fun they have had too, in the way of chaperoning proms, fishing trips, going to a park, to Six Flags, or even to camp. Children typically stay no longer than six months at the shelter, but it is the policy of Hope Haven to keep a child as long as it is in their best interest. Some have stayed a year.

"It makes us feel good that we can make a difference," said Latham.

But Hope Haven could not make that difference in so many children's lives without community support. At the beginning the shelter was funded almost totally by small donations by individuals in the community, Latham said. Since then, donations have started to come more and more from businesses and corporations and of course, The United Way.

"We're a little concerned over that," he said. "Because the basis for our success has always been the community and the individuals that live here. We still need the interest of those individuals to be successful."

Hope Haven is a 501c3 organization. For more information or to contribute please call: 228-467-7945 and ask for Hope Haven.

THE SEA COAST ECHO
"Of course we said, 'Yes!' when asked to host several workshops for New York artist and teacher Ilona Royce-Smithkin at the depot," said Cultural Affairs Director Mike Cuevas. ativity of professional and budding artists. She delivers her classes with experience and technical know-how but adds to the class her personal joy of painting. Ilona will offer the basics of impressionism and oil painting through demonstrations, explanations and will discuss materials and terms. She will provide lessons on drawing, color mixing, perspective, lights and darks, the basics of painting for all artists. If you have not previously studied with Ilona it is suggested that you bring samples of your work for the artist to review.

For more information or to register for the classes please call Mike Cuevas, 228-463-7120 or Dovey Mayes, 228-463-0141.

These workshops are a major fall component of the city's BayArts programs and are coordinated by the Division of Cultural Affairs.

The Four tops

The Four Tops marvel Bay Casino Magic audiences

The Four Tops have been marveling audiences with their infectious blend of pure vocal power and sweet harmonies since 1954. Casino Magic Bay St. Louis welcomes The Four Tops for two performances, October 22 and 23 at 9 p.m. Tickets are now available for: $14.95, $19.95 & $24.95 through the Casino Magic Box Office, by calling 1-800-5-MAGIC-5 or through any Ticketmaster outlet.

High school friends from Detroit's North End, Levi Stubbs, Renaldo "Obie" Benson, Abdul "Duke" Fakir and Lawrence Payton started playing parties as the Four Aims, as they were aiming for the top. After catching the ear and eye of singer Billy Eckstine, they changed the name to The Four Tops, so as not to be confused with the Ames Brothers.

In the early 60s, the group was introduced to Berry Gordy, who signed them to his new label, Motown Records. Hit after hit followed, starting in 1964 with "Baby I Need Your Loving", and continuing with songs like "Reach Out, I'll Be There," "Standing in the Shadows of Love," "Bernadette," and "I Can't Help Myself (Sugar Pie, Honey Bunch)".

In the early 70's, The Four Tops recorded the hits, "Ain't No Woman (Like the One I've Got)" and "Keeper of the Castle". As record sales started slowing, the group returned to their strength, the live show. The group continues to play almost 200 dates a year, and have been inducted to the Rock N' Roll Hall of Fame. In 2004, the group marks their 50th anniversary.

Don't miss The Four Tops at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis, October 22 & 23! Must be 21 to attend.

PBS' 'Broadway' surveys the Great White Way

By John Crook
© Zap2it

Broadway's original "fair lady" guides viewers through an unprecedented and engrossing six-hour history of the Great White Way as "Broadway: The American Musical" premieres Tuesday-Thursday, Oct. 19-21, on PBS.

Hosted by Julie Andrews, the unprecedented miniseries surveys the American musical roughly from the 1904 naming of Times Square to the present day. Rather than simply being a chronological clip job, however, this "Broadway" attempts to present the featured shows - ranging from "Showboat" to the current smash "Wicked" - within the social and political context of their times.

"I didn't want to just make a catalog of clips, first because these clips are not able to stand on their own; as in 'That's Entertainment,'" explains producer-director Michael Kantor. "They need an emotional context, a way to help people to understand why a given show happened when it did.

"My goal was to use the songs and the shows as a barometer of American culture. Songs are the pulse of a nation's heart, the fever chart of its health. They give you an entertaining history lesson - they're sort of a spoonful of sugar that helps people understand the history in a different way."

And it's high time someone attempted such a challenging project, says Andrews, star of the Broadway hits "The Boy Friend," "My Fair Lady," "Camelot" and "Victor/Victoria."

"I am so pleased that they asked me, because this has been a passion of mine for so long; and I am so thrilled that some of these performances have been preserved," the Oscar-winning actress says. "I literally wept at a couple of things that moved me so much."

"It's about bloody time, truthfully," she adds. "What other (network) can you imagine would do a series like this and ... bring you the history of America surrounding the shows as well? It is simply thrilling. I have wanted to be a part of something like this for many, many years, so I'm simply delighted."

Ten years in the making, the miniseries draws from rare archival footage and even private home movies, as well as vintage cast recordings, to recount legendary Broadway landmarks such as George Gershwin's groundbreaking "Forgy and Bess," the electricity of "Oklahoma!" on its opening night and Ethel Merman's galvanizing "I've Got Rhythm" to currently running smashes such as Julie Taymor's revolutionary "The Lion King" and a behind-the-scenes look at how "Wicked" came together.

"NFL Football" Sunday, Oct. 17 (ESPN, 8:30 p.m. ET): Things looked bleak for the New Orleans Saints when star running back Deuce McAllister was injured in Week 2. After all, McAllister, who won't return until most likely early November, finished second in the NFC in rushing last season, so it became imperative that No. 2 man Aaron Stecker show he can carry the load. The 28-year-old did that in his first game as a starter, and tonight against Minnesota, Stecker looks to continue making defenses miss.

"NFL Football" Monday, Oct. 18 (ABC, 9 p.m. ET): After two straight weeks away from home, Marshall Faulk and the St. Louis Rams return to the Edward Jones Dome to take on Tampa Bay. But the confines may not be all that friendly to Rams coach Mike Martz, whose decisions, especially in an embarrassing Week 3 loss here to New Orleans, are again being criticized. Things aren't better for coach

Marshall Faulk and the St. Louis Rams host the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on ABC's "Monday Night Football."

Jon Gruden and the offensively challenged Bucs, who began the season 0-3.

"MLB Baseball" Saturday, Oct. 23 (Fox, 7:30 p.m. ET): If it's this time of year, it must be time for the Fall Classic — and indeed, another World Series begins tonight. The pennant-winning teams in the American and National Leagues square off in the best-of-seven competition, with Joe Buck and Tim McCarver once again among the sportscasters handling the play-by-play and analysis.

Celebrity Scoop

Carmine Giovinazzo

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Whatever degree of success he enjoys with "CSI: NY," Carmine Giovinazzo won't hold out for a bigger paycheck.

That's not to say he wouldn't enjoy getting one, but he doesn't plan to make a "no raise, no work" stand for it. A co-star of CBS' new Wednesday crime drama that extends the hugely successful "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" franchise to a third show, the actor isn't about to mimic the move that got two cast members of the original show fired temporarily — and almost permanently — during the summer.

"The reaction I had to that was instinctual," Giovinazzo says. "I'd be shining (former CBS Entertainment president and current Viacom co-CEO Les Moonves's) shoes, and caddy-ing for him every weekend, if I was making that much money." (George Eads and Jorja Fox ultimately were rehired for "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," without raises.)

A co-star of the military movie "Black Hawk Down" who previously was a regular on UPN's much-maligned sitcom "Shasta McNasty," Giovinazzo now plays Danny Messer, a Brooklyn-native forensic detective who followed other family members into police work.

Giovinazzo's own clan has a history of wearing the blue uniform: His father and sister were members of the New York Police Department, and his brother-in-law was on the detail of former New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani.

"I don't have the stomach, I don't think, or the mind" to be an actual forensic investigator, Giovinazzo reasons. "They have to have a heart or stomach of steel, these people, to be in front of this much death. I don't think I could do it."

Born: Aug. 24, 1973, in Staten Island, N.Y.

Current residence: Los Angeles

Marital status: Single

Other TV work: "Shasta McNasty," "The Guardian," "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation" (in a guest role); "UC: Undercover," "Providence" (opposite current "CSI: NY" co-star Melina Kanakaredes); "Pacific Blue"; "Buffy the Vampire Slayer" (in the show's pilot episode).

Movie work: "Black Hawk Down"; "The Learning Curve"; "Terror Tract"; "For Love of the Game"; "The Big Brass Ring"; "Fallen Arches"; "Billy's Hollywood Screen Kiss"; "No Way Home" (which was written and directed by Carmine's cousin, Buddy Giovinazzo).

Hobbies: Painting; poetry; playing guitar.

Stars gather to remember and celebrate the great Ray Charles

By John Crook
©Zap2it

Some of today's hottest music superstars gather to celebrate the memory of a beloved peer in "Genius: A Night for Ray Charles," a two-hour "entertainment special," premiering Friday, Oct. 22, on CBS.

Taped two weeks earlier at the Staples Center in Los Angeles, the program will feature a diverse slate of performers and celebrities who say they were influenced by the versatile Charles, who died of liver failure last June at age 73. Given that the 12-time Grammy Award winner triumphed across the music spectrum, with hits in the R&B, pop, country and rock genres, it may not be surprising that the evening's musical lineup ranges from Mary J. Blige to Norah Jones, Reba McEntire to Elton John.

Others scheduled to perform include Kenny Chesney, Al Green, B.B. King, Usher and Stevie Wonder. Additionally, Mos Def, Quincy Jones and Bruce Willis will be on hand to introduce performances.

Among the Ray Charles songs on the program are "Georgia on My Mind," "Hit the Road Jack," "Night Time Is the Right Time," "I Can't Stop Lovin' You" and "Unchain My Heart." The special also includes video clips of Charles' long and varied career, interspersed with other film clips from the upcoming feature film biography "Ray," which opens nationally on Oct. 29.

Taylor Hackford, that film's director, is among the executive producers of the "Genius" special, and his star, Jamie Foxx, is host for the evening. While the actor and comic made recent headlines performing duets with Kevin Spacey at September's Toronto Film Festival, however, Foxx says he'll be taking a much more low-key role in the CBS entertainment.

"Basically my job is to serve as a facilitator," Foxx explains. "I mean, we have people who have known Ray Charles for 30 or 40 years. We want to give them a chance to pay homage to Ray Charles in whatever way they see fit."

"These are all people with their own stories or music to share. I'm there just to say a few words as needed here and there through the show, to make sure it all moves smoothly."

Taylor Hackford, who directed the film, also has had this special in mind for a long time, and we want to make it clear that these people are getting together because they actually knew Ray Charles."

Like the feature film, the CBS special also will trace Charles' rise from his poverty-stricken Georgia roots to superstardom, as recalled by Jones, King and David "Fathead" Newman.

The late singer, composer and pianist developed his gift for music as a child, driven by a strong-willed mother who insisted that he make his own way in the world, even after losing his sight to glaucoma at age 7.

"When I put those prosthetics into my eyes so I couldn't see, that's when I really started feeling a sense of what he had to go through," Foxx says. "One thing that was so great is that Ray Charles was still alive when we finished filming, so he was able to be at a screening. It was so beautiful that he was able to get his flowers, you know, before he left us, and for his family, and for everyone who had been working on this film."

"Ray" started out as this little independent film with no distribution, and it's just been beautiful to see it come together like this."

While Foxx says he sympathizes with how hard Hackford had to work to get backing and distribution deals for this project, he freely admits he's glad "Ray" didn't get made any earlier.

Comedian Jamie Foxx facilitates a night of all-star music performances and remembrance as host of the two-hour special "Genius: A Night for Ray Charles," premiering Friday on CBS.

Taylor Hackford has been carrying around the idea for this movie for 15 years," Foxx explains. "Luckily for me, they didn't find anyone to play Ray until I came along. The stars finally lined up right, and the script was right, so that's why this movie is happening now."

The film received a sneak preview at September's 34th Congressional Black Caucus in Washington, D.C., where audiences gave "Ray" an enthusiastic reception.

"It was incredible, just extraordinary," Foxx recalls. "People were dancing in the aisles. This movie really takes you on a ride, and at the end they gave it a standing ovation. Here in Los Angeles, people are stopping me everywhere I go, in stores, wherever, and saying, 'I cannot wait for this movie.' It's just incredible how it's all coming together, and it feels like it's going to be huge."

Soap Talk

No 'Extreme' for Jeanne Cooper

Jeanne Cooper

By Paulette Cohn
©Zap2it

Jeanne Cooper made soap opera history in March 1984, when she allowed viewers of "The Young and the Restless" to witness her real-life facelift when she - and her alter ego, Katherine Chancellor Sterling - went under the knife as part of her story line. The outcome was huge ratings. Twenty years later, the networks caught on, with the end result being shows such as "Extreme Makeover" and "The Swan."

"But the daytime diva, who declares she may be ready for a few more nips and tucks, says she doesn't tune in. 'I think it is setting a trend of making people say, 'I am not good enough.'"

With the exception of The History Channel, Cooper says, she doesn't watch much television, but spends her free time with a good book - Sir Winston Churchill is her favorite author - and her family.

"Right now, Corbin (Bernsen) and Amanda (Pays) are at my house with their four because the new house they bought isn't ready yet. So it is Camp Run-a-Muck at this point," she says with a laugh.

Adding to the chaos is the fact that two of her grandsons are trying their hand at filmmaking. Oliver wants to be a director, and Weston has his sight set on cinematography. They round up the rest of the kids in the family to be the actors in their 15-minute, blood-and-guts short films.

"I said, 'Can't you make a romantic comedy?' " Jeanne recalls, "and Oliver said, 'They don't sell, Grandma.'"

Dear Paulette: As a faithful viewer of CBS soaps, I would like to know if the "Luckenbill" that plays J.T. on "The Young and the Restless" is the son of Luci Arnaz Luckinbill, and if Nick Newman is the son of Vic Morrow? Thank you. - Elizabeth J., Gulfport, Fla.

Dear Reader: No and no. Thad Luckinbill, who plays J.T. Hellstrom, is not Arnaz's son, and Joshua Morrow, who plays Nicholas Newman, is not the son of the late Vic Morrow. However, Morrow's daughters, Jennifer Jason Leigh and Carrie Morrow, did follow their father into the business.

'CSI: Miami' actor was ready to leave show

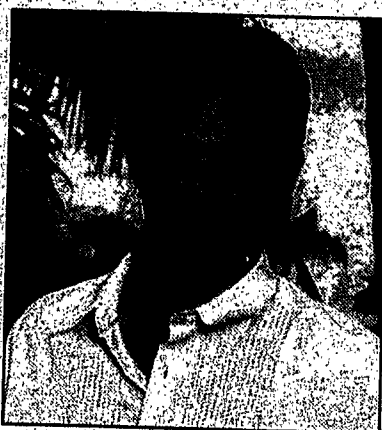

By Taylor Michaels
©Zap2it

Q I'm a huge fan of "CSI: Miami." Why did they kill off Tim Speed? Speedie (Rory Cochrane)? Kaitlin via e-mail.

A It was a mutual decision. A CBS publicist tells me the show's producers didn't decide to kill off the character until Cochrane asked to be released to pursue other projects. He co-stars with Keanu Reeves in the 2005 sci-fi feature film "A Scanner Darkly."

It may seem nuts for a rising young actor to leave a successful series, but in large ensembles such as this one, many actors feel it's best to make an impression and then move on to more distinctive roles. For instance, Bobby Cannavale left NBC's "Third Watch" early on for higher-profile roles in A&E Network's "100 Centre Street," and even more acclaimed work in NBC's "Kingspin" and HBO's "Oz."

And I still have the letter a reader sent me several years ago firmly insisting that George Clooney clearly had lost his mind, leaving a secure job on the female-dominated "Sisters" in favor of a genre-sounding new NBC medical drama called "ER."

Rory Cochrane

Q Anna Belknap of NBC's new "Medical Investigation" looks familiar. What has she done previously? Mike O'Connor, Atlanta.

A You probably remember her as Lily in CBS' short-lived drama series "The Handler," with Joe Pantoliano. Before that, Belknap had an even briefer run as Chase in the 2000 Oliver Platt bomb "Deadline."

Q Whom can I contact at the BBC to encourage the production of more episodes of "Foyle's War"? It made me realize what a good detective series can truly be like. -Anna Bertolin, Olympia, Wash.

A A third "Foyle" cycle already is in production in England, so you'd be better off urging PBS to be sure to air the show here in the States. Write to PBS Programming, 1320 Bradford Place, Alexandria, VA 22314.

Q Is Jon Cryer related to Suzanne Cryer? -Sherry Hansen via e-mail.

A No. Jon is the son of theater actors David and Gretchen Cryer (who also is remembered for co-creating the feminist musical "I'm Getting My Act Together and Taking It on the Road"). Suzanne is not related to this family, although she, too, started out in the theater.

Movie: Bugs Bunny's 3rd Movie: 1001 Rabbit Tales

This 1982 compilation of classic Warner Bros. cartoons, produced by Friz Freleng, links the separate animated shorts by having Yosemite Sam appear as a sultan who traps book salesman Bugs in his palace and makes him tell stories to his bratty nephew. Shorts include Chuck Jones' classic "One Froggy Evening" (strangely minus its punch line) and films featuring Daffy Duck, Tweety, Sylvester and others.

Movie: Like Mike

An orphaned teen (Lil' Bow Wow) finds a pair of old sneakers with the initials "MJ" inside. Could they possibly have belonged to the great Michael Jordan? Whatever the reason, they allow him to do great things on the basketball court and be discovered by an NBA team. Jonathan Lipnicki, Robert Forster, Crispin Glover and Anne Mearns also star in this heartwarming 2002 fantasy.

2:30 p.m. on AMC

Movie: Harvey

James Stewart seems born to the role of Elwood P. Dowd, a gentle soul who loves life, martinis and his best friend: Harvey the 6-foot invisible rabbit. His mortified sister and niece (Josephine Hull, Victoria Home) have had enough of this odd couple and want Elwood committed, but they may be outnumbered, especially when the head of the asylum starts believing in Harvey. Hull won an Oscar for her work in this delightful 1950 comedy, which also stars Charles Drake.

Thursday

Movie: Casper Meets Wendy

Hilary Duff plays the good little witch of comic-book fame in this 1998 made-for-video sequel to 1995's "Casper." While vacationing at a resort with her aunts (Cathy Moriarty, Shelley Long, Teri Garr), she meets Casper, who's staying there with his uncles. Wendy's aunts don't trust ghosts, and Casper's uncles have a similar prejudice against witches, but the two friends defy their guardians to stop an evil warlock (guest star George Hamilton).

Movie: When Good Ghoulz Go Bad

Imagine an Oct. 31 with no plastic pumpkins overflowing with bite-size candy bars. Such is the world into which 12-year-old Danny Walker (Joe Fichter) moves with his father and Uncle Fred (Tom Amandes, Christopher Lloyd). Haunted by a curse that prevents it from celebrating Halloween, the Minnesota town falls victim to a series of pranks and a fatal accident that leads to the death of Uncle Fred — and unleashes the curse of the town legend.

Saturday

3:30 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Three Men and a Little Lady

This 1990 sequel to "Three Men and a Cradle" reunites Jack, Peter and Michael (Ted Danson, Tom Selleck, Steve Guttenberg) who are raising Jack and Sylvia's (Nancy Travis) daughter, Mary (Robin Weisman). However, Sylvia decides to move to England to wed her new boyfriend, and she's taking Mary with her. Horrified by the thought of long-distance parenting, the three men set out to stop the nuptials.

Sunday Best Bets

3 p.m. on 6-NBC
LPGA Golf
The prestigious Samsung World Championship concludes today from Bighorn Golf Club in Palm Desert, Calif. The 7,083-yard Canyon Course at Bighorn greeted the competitors when this tournament started off Thursday, and now one lady in the exclusive 20-player field, which includes Annika Sorenstam, Grace Park, Se Ri Pak and defending champion Sophie Gustafson, is poised to rise about the rest. Also playing is amateur phenom Michelle Wie, who is 15.

7 p.m. on 4-CBS
Cold Case
An apparent snuff movie puts Lilly and Valens (Kathryn Morris, Danny Pino) on a new probe of a 25-year-old murder case in the new episode "Daniela." Two teen-agers played as adults by guest stars Brian Cousins and Fritz Greve lured a young woman into making the film, but they now insist she wasn't killed for real... prompting the police detectives to determine why she was never seen again.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
American Dreams
JJ (Will Estes) has a wide range of experiences — some of them romantic — while serving in Saigon in the new episode "Surround Me." Jack (Tom Verica) is dismayed when his election opponent uses dirty tricks. Meg and Roxanne (Brittany Snow, Vanessa Lengies) continue collaborating on a play, but their unity may be impacted by Chris' (guest star Milo Ventimiglia) effect on Meg. Ben Taylor guest stars and performs.

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
Desperate Housewives
A dinner party this late Mary Alice (Brenda Strong) had in the works comes to be in the new episode "Pretty Little Picture." Her friends and neighbors decide to make it happen. Gabrielle (Eva Longoria) adultery is discovered by a child (guest star Emily Christine) who may not keep it to herself. Bree (Marcia Cross) doesn't want others to know the state of her marriage. Susan (Teri Hatcher) has it out with her ex (guest star Richard Burgi).

8 p.m. on 4-CBS
Movie: Perfect Strangers
Rob Lowe is sure getting around during this TV season. His series "dr. vegas" is based in the gambling mecca, but he's in London in this new movie, a romantic comedy from the company behind "Love Actually" and "Four Weddings and a Funeral." Lowe plays a New York advertising man sent to England to pursue an account; he ends up also pursuing the British counterpart (Anna Friel) with whom he literally and temporarily trades places.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC
Law & Order: Criminal Intent
Guest star Olivia D'Abo ("The Wonder Years") returns as Goren's (Vincent D'Onofrio) old enemy Nicole Wallace, who preys upon a jewel thief (guest star Grace Shu) now working solo after her partner's murder, in the new episode "Great Barrier." Goren's consequent investigation uncovers a history of betrayals that shakes him to the core.

8 p.m. on HBO
The Wire
Colvin (Robert Wisdom) takes relatively drastic action in a bid to push his proposed reforms through in the new episode "Straight and True." McNulty (Dominic West) feels foiled in his pursuit of Stringer Bell (Idris Elba), who apparently has gone legitimate. Carcetti (Aidan Gillen) tries to plug the holes in the witness-protection program after the murder of another person who was under guard.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
Boston Legal
Freddie Prince Jr. guest stars as Crane's (William Shatner) estranged son, a fellow attorney, in the new episode "Catch and Release." He argues against the construction of a shopping mall being planned by one of his father's top clients. Shore (James Spader) and the ex-lover (guest star Elizabeth Mitchell) who once tried to kill him are on opposing sides in a courtroom. Sally (Lake Bell) tries her first case.

9 p.m. on 6-NBC
Crossing Jordan
Haunted by her past already, Jordan (Jill Hennessy) gets another unsettling reminder of earlier times in the new episode "Deja Past." Bones are found in a house she knows well from her childhood, setting the stage for an even more shocking discovery. Macy and Woody (Miguel Ferrer, Jerry O'Connell) probe the death of an American soldier.

Tuesday Best Bets

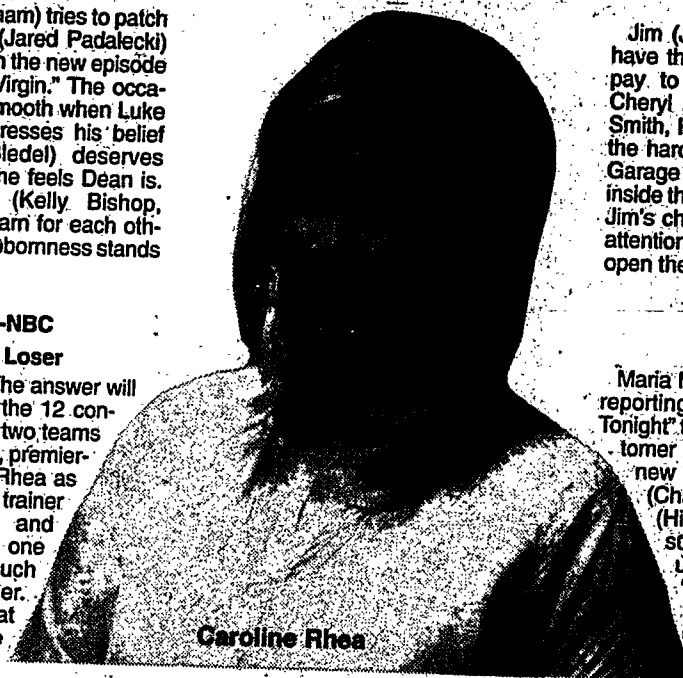

7 p.m. on 38-WB
Gilmore Girls

Lorelai (Lauren Graham) tries to patch things up with Dean (Jared Padalecki) during a double date in the new episode "We Got Us a Pippi Virgin." The occasion turns less than smooth when Luke (Scott Patterson) expresses his belief that Rory (Alexis Bladel) deserves someone better than he feels Dean is. Emily and Richard (Kelly Bishop, Edward Herrmann) yearn for each other, but their mutual stubbornness stands in the way.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC
The Biggest Loser

Who can diet best? The answer will be determined among the 12 contestants separated into two teams in this unscripted series, premiering here with Caroline Rhea as host. Each squad has a trainer to implement fitness and nutrition regimens, but one of the leaders is much tougher than the other. Each week, the team that collectively loses the least weight has to select one member to be eliminated.

Caroline Rhea

8 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC
According to Jim

Jim (Jim Belushi) might not seem to have the best suggestions, but it does pay to listen to him sometimes, as Cheryl and Dana (Courtney Thorne-Smith, Kimberly Williams-Paisley) learn the hard way in the new episode "The Garage Door." They end up trapped inside the garage, along with Cheryl and Jim's children, because they didn't pay attention when Jim explained how to open the door from inside.

8 p.m. on 38-WB
One Tree Hill

Maria Menounos moonlights from her reporting role on "Entertainment Tonight" to guest star as a flirtatious customer of Keith (Craig Sheffer) in the new episode "I Will Dare." Lucas (Chad Michael Murray), Peyton (Hilarie Burton) and others have surprising encounters and make unexpected confessions during "Dare Night." Karen (Maura Kelly) has a date with her professor (guest star Kieran Hutchison).

8 p.m. on 54-UPN
Veronica Mars

Veronica (Kristen Bell) helps Wallace (Percy Daggs III) try to recover his new flame's (guest star Kyla Pratt) swindled money in the new episode "The Wrath of Con." The bliking was staged by computer experts committing robberies via the Internet. Keith (Enrico Colantoni) insists on an up-close look at Veronica's date (guest star Aaron Ashmore) for the homecoming dance. The school marks the first anniversary of Lilly's (Amanda Seyfried) death.

9 p.m. on 26-ABC
NYPD Blue

The new, unattractive attitude exhibited by Clark (Mark-Paul Gosselaar) may spell the end of his partnership with Sipowicz (Dennis Franz) in the new episode "Divorce, Detective Style." Each has other problems: Clark's murder-trial testimony is disallowed because of his personal tie to someone in the case, and Sipowicz is still stalked. A man maintains his son has been abducted and is being held for ransom.

9 p.m. on 4-CBS
Judging Amy

Although a teenager confesses to a murder, Amy (Amy Brenneman) isn't sure she believes him in the new episode "Legacy." Determined to make good on an earlier error by hearing more testimony in the case, she listens to his psychiatrist and older brother, who give her more doubts about the youth's alleged guilt. Maxine's (Tina Dally) unusual bid to secure adoptions for foster children catches a politician's eye.

Wednesday Best Bets

Lost

A sleep-deprived Jack (Matthew Fox) has flashbacks that involve his mother (guest star Veronica Hamel, "Hill Street Blues") in the new episode "White Rabbit." A ripide threatens Boone's (Ian Somerhalder) life. The group's last bottles of water vanish, causing suspicion and accusations. John Terry ("ER") also guest stars.

7 p.m. on 38-WB

Smallville

Another DC Comics character turns up in Smallville as The Flash (guest star Kyle Gallner) surprises Clark (Tom Welling) with his superhuman speed in the new episode "Run." The two of them may form an alliance that would force Clark to leave town. The Flash then steals a manuscript from Lex (Michael Rosenbaum) that could endanger Clark, given its Kryptonian markings.

7 p.m. on 6-NBC

Hawaii

Vacationing honeymooners have their Hawaiian visit interrupted in an alarming way in the new episode "Almost Paradise." The bride vanishes, and Harrison and Declan (Michael Blehn, Sharif Atkins) search for her while officials worry about the effect the disappearance could have on the islands' tourism business. Gains and Edwards (Eric Balfour, Ivan Sergei) seek a convenience-store owner's killer.

8 p.m. on 4-CBS

The King of Queens

Doug (Kevin James) schemes to make Carrie (Leah Remini) willing to let him go to Las Vegas with his pals in "Lost Vegas," the sitcom's seventeenth-season-premiere episode. He treats her to a stay at a spa, only to find the Vegas trek canceled — prompting him to find a new way to make his plan pay off for him. Spence (Patton Oswalt) learns Arthur's (Jerry Stiller) method for winning at blackjack.

8 p.m. on 38-WB

The Mountain

Travis and Colin (Johann Urb, Mitch Pileggi) blackmail David (Oliver Hudson) into turning control of part of the mountain over to them in the new episode "Masquerade." Gennie (Barbara Hershey) gets a suitor at a charity event where Shelly and Michael (Tara Thompson, Tommy Dewey) notch up their mutual attraction.

8 p.m. on 6-NBC

The West Wing

As the White House drama's sixth year begins with "NSF Thurmont," change is in the air — and on the air. A guest star last season, Mary McCormack ("Private Parts") becomes a full-time cast member as the national security adviser, who weighs in on the Gaza Strip attack. Marley Shelton ("Uptown Girls") also becomes a series regular as the new deputy press secretary to President Bartlet (Martin Sheen) and his administration.

8:30 p.m. on 4-CBS

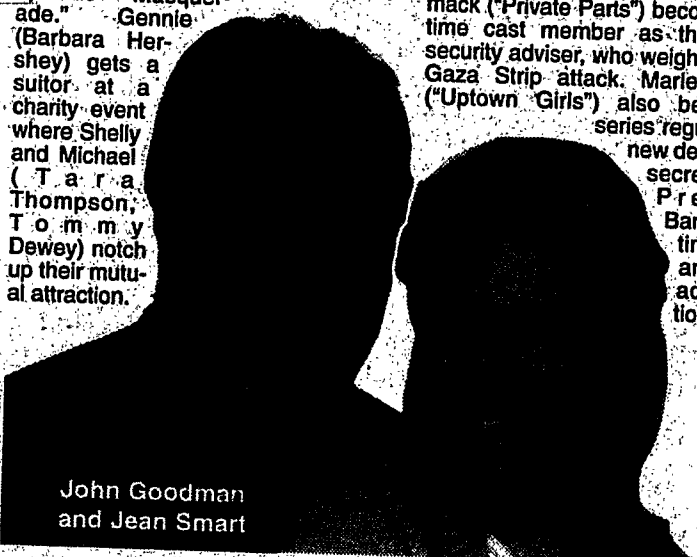

Center of the Universe

"Roseanne" wasn't the end of unconventional TV family life for John Goodman, around whom another atypical clan revolves as this sitcom premieres. Although he'd love to focus on his wife (Jean Smart, "Designing Women"), security-firm owner John Barnett (Goodman) also must deal with frequent visits by his offbeat parents (Olympia Dukakis, Ed Asner), and the deadbeat outlook of his brother (Diedrich Bader, "The Drew Carey Show").

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order

Two police officers are killed while staging a sting on a black-market firearms operation in the new episode "Gunplay." Green (Jesse L. Martin) goes under cover to identify the murderers; he and Fontana (Dennis Farina) then trace the crimes to a Web site funded by a district attorney with a personal grudge against cops. He claims First Amendment rights as the prosecutors move in on him.

John Goodman and Jean Smart

Saturday Best Bets

7 p.m. on 26-ABC on 13-ABC

Movie: The Princess Diaries

A modern variation on "Cinderella," director Gary Marshall's charming 2001 comedy stars Anne Hathaway ("Ella Enchanted") as a shy, unsophisticated teen whose desire to stay under the radar is trashed by the news that she's a member of royalty. Her long-estranged grandmother (an ideally cast Julie Andrews) tries to train her to take over the monarchy. Singer-actress Mandy Moore co-stars.

7 p.m. on FAM

Movie: I Know What You Did Last Summer

Four teenagers who accidentally hit a man with their car — and not-so-accidentally dump him in the ocean — return to their hometown a year after the incident and become the targets of a mysterious, murderous figure in a black raincoat. Jennifer Love Hewitt, Sarah Michelle Gellar, Ryan Phillippe and Freddie Prinze Jr. star in this 1997 thriller from "Scream" writer Kevin Williamson.

7 p.m. on HBO

Movie: Dr. Seuss' The Cat in the Hat

After bringing a live-action version of "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" to the screen, producer Ron Howard went back to the works of Dr. Seuss for this visually clever 2003 representation of a nother classic. Mike Myers maintains his wise-guy approach as the title feline, who watches over two youngsters (Dakota Fanning, Spencer Breslin). Kelly Preston plays their mother, who is pursued by an ardent neighbor (Alec Baldwin).

9 p.m. on 6-NBC

Law & Order: Special Victims Unit

The condition of a slain criminology student's body convinces Stabler and Benson (Christopher Meloni, Mariska Hargitay) that the killer is a forensic expert in "Criminal." The investigation eventually zeroes in on the victim's school adviser, who was arrested for a similar rape and homicide years earlier by Cragen (Dann Florek).

9:30 p.m. on TNT

Movie: The Juror

A spirited single mother (Demi Moore) selected to serve on the jury of a powerful mobster's murder trial becomes the target of a mob assassin (Alec Baldwin) in this 1996 drama. Personally drawn to her, he nevertheless employs threatening tactics in his scheme to persuade her to get the jury to vote not guilty. Joseph Gordon-Levitt and Anne Heche also star.
